

PETRARCH SYMPOSIUM*Francesco Petrarca 1304-1374*The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill*March 18 – March 20, 2004

With gratitude I would like to acknowledge the support of all those who have made the Petrarch Symposium and the publication of this volume possible:

Professor Frank Dominguez, Professor Erika Lindemann, and the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures;

Senior Associate Dean Dean Darryl Gless
and the College of Arts and Sciences;

Professor Ruel W. Tyson and the Institute for the Arts and Humanities;

Dr. Ruth Mitchell-Pitts and the Center for European Studies;

Professor Edward Don Kennedy and the Curriculum of Comparative Literature;
the Music Department;

all Italian faculty and all graduate students in Italian for their support and collaboration;

the organizers of the Conference on Romance Literatures;
the Italian Club; the secretarial staff of the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures;

finally and foremost, all participants of the Petrarch Symposium.