Strive for regional development and improvement of local people’s socio-economic life

The State Peace and Development Council, always upholding “Our Three Main National Causes”, has been striving for the development of border areas and 24 special regions by laying down plans and implementing them systematically. At the same time, it is also implementing the five rural development tasks.

The annual coordination meeting of Development Affairs Department under the Ministry for Progress of Border Areas and National Races and Development Affairs was held at the meeting hall of the department on 16 May and was attended by Secretary-1 of the State Peace and Development Council Lt-Gen Thein Sein.

In his speech at the meeting, the Secretary-1 said that non-disintegration of the Union, non-disintegration of national solidarity and perpetuation of sovereignty was the genuine Union Spirit and therefore the staff of Development Affairs Department were to carry out the tasks for regional development with national political awareness. Only then would they succeed in their work for all-round development of sectors and regions, he added.

As rural and urban development is essential to our efforts for peace, stability and development of the nation and for the establishment of a democratic state, all those responsible are required to take an active part in all rural and urban development work. For harmonious development of the entire Union, the staff of development affairs committees are placing special emphasis on two of the five rural development tasks — better transport and supply of safe drinking water. They are to regard it as a national duty to carry out development work and serve the interests of the people in accordance with the law, rules and regulations.

To be able to carry out development work successfully, it is necessary for the DAD staff to collect all revenues and use them systematically without loss and wastage and fulfill all the requirements for rural and urban development. Therefore, we would like to call on all the DAD staff to strive, with national political awareness, for regional development and improvement of the local people’s socio-economic life.
China’s largest-ever oceanic survey in high gear

BEIJING, 16 May — A comprehensive survey on China’s vast areas of inland waters, and marine belts has gone in high gear in an attempt to sort and count the country’s marine resources, said the State Oceanic Administration (SOA) here on Saturday.

The survey, or “908 Project,” is a mammoth effort to check some 676,000 square kilometres of water, collect accurate information and appropriately position resources contained in these waters in the national development plan, says a written SOA news release on Saturday.

The project, approved by the State Council in September 2003 and scheduled to be carried out from 2004 to the end of 2009, includes investigations in the physical, chemical, meteorologic, geologic, biologic and optical complexions of the targeted waters.

It will also probe the coastline and islands, track ocean disasters and observe the social and economic development of the country’s coastal regions. “We are trying to count China’s oceanic properties,” said SOA Vice-Director Chen Lianzeng on Saturday while defining the aims of the project, the largest of its kind since 1949. In addition, scientists will also evaluate and use their findings to help formulate the national oceanic development strategies and make decisions concerning social and economic development of the country’s coastal regions.

The project is considered as a rudimentary endeavour in an even-larger framework of the so-called “Digital Oceans” scheme, featuring a comprehensive computerized three-dimensional simulation of the oceans. According to Qi Shuang, vice-director of SOA technological department, preliminary work on the “908 Project” was finished last year and core research and studies will continue through the next two years.

It is estimated that the central government will invest nearly two billion yuan (242 million US dollars) in the programme in addition to an unspecified amount from local governments.

“The specific amount of money spent will be subject to change in accordance with the annual central and local budgets,” said SOA spokesman Li Chunxian here.

Nepal celebrates golden jubilee of Mt Makalu

KATHMANDU, 16 May — Nepal is celebrating golden jubilee of Mt Makalu, the fifth highest peak in the world, from on Sunday.

Late Lean Couzy and Lionel Terray of France expedition team led by Jean Erancro was the first to scale the 8,463 metres high peak on 15 May, 1955.

However, Franco and other climbers conquered the peak the next day, Nepal Mountaineering Association said.

On the occasion, a procession will be organized in honour of the foreign and local mountaineer in the 50 years since the first summit to the mountain, the association said.

The Nepali Government is hosting a special programme in honour of the mountaineer while commemorative stamps on Makalu will be published.

President of the association Ang Tshering Sherpa told reporters, following the successful organizing of the Golden Jubilee of the summit to the world’s highest peak Mt. Qomolangma on 18 May, 2004, the Golden Jubilee of scaling of all the mountains above 8,000 metres is being observed.

The Golden Jubilee celebration of Mt. Cho-Oyu (8,201) has already been observed last October, as the Nepali Government has adopted a policy to celebrate Golden Jubilee Anniversary of ascends on all peaks above 8,000 metres height.

Supplies donated for Marines in Iraq stolen

BAGHDAD, 16 May — Hundreds of pounds of donated supplies for Marines in Iraq — eye drops, throat lozenges, DVDs and sunscreen — have been stolen from a storage unit where the Wilmington Rotary Club kept the supplies until they were shipped.

The items were valued at $3,000 and nearly filled a 12-by-8-foot storage unit. The theft was discovered Monday.

“It was a huge amount,” said Wilbur Jones, Rotary Club project coordinator. “It just jammed our storage locker.”

The only things left untouched in the storage unit were Beanie Babies meant for children in Iraq.

Rotary Club members were undaunted and said they will accept donated items from Saturday at the Wilmington Athletic Club.

Rotarians have been collecting items Marines cant get in Iraq as part of a project called Mission Iraq Marine. So far, the club has sent two shipments totaling 1,300 pounds to the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing.

Indian State Minister visits JAFZA to explore investment prospects

DUBAI, 16 May — The Tourism Minister of the south Indian state of Andhra Pradesh, Geeta Reddy, has visited Dubai’s international trading hub Jabel Ali Free Zone Authority (JAFZA) to explore the possibility of investing in Information Technology and healthcare in its newly-opened south zone.

“The fact that JAFZA offers 100 per cent ownership and a tax-free environment, not to mention the convenience of setting up operations in the South Zone, is a major incentive for investment. Also, the infrastructure of JAFZA, as well as the facilities it offers, is excellent,” Reddy said.

Reddy’s visit is aimed mainly at preparing the ground for a trip to Dubai by Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Y. S. Rajashekhara Reddy which could lead to greater cooperation between the State and the Government of Dubai.

Zambia, Libya agree on major investment projects

LUSAKA, 16 May — Liby will invest to build a 10,000-hectare farm and an ultra-modern hotel in Zambia, according to bilateral agreements signed on Sunday during Zambian President Levy Mwanawasa’s visit to Libya, the official Zambia News Agency reported.

The projects were agreed upon during talks held between President Mwanawasa and his host Libyan leader Moammar Kadafi at the latter’s residence in the heart of Tripoli.

By the agreements, the Zambian Government will allocate a piece of land in Serenje, Central Province, to Libya for agricultural development.

President Mwanawasa appealed to Libya to extend its expertise in irrigation farming to help Zambia move away from the rain fed farming dependency syndrome.

The two leaders also agreed that Libya will build an ultra-modern hotel in Zambia. The hotel was originally supposed to be located in Zambia’s tourism capital Livingstone, but President Mwanawasa advised that it be located to Lusaka, Central or Copperbelt Province, saying that Livingstone is too small for the project to operate profitably.

The two governments agreed to set up a joint committee to implement the two projects. President Mwanawasa arrived in Tripoli on Sunday from Accra after his four-day official visit to Ghana. He has since asked his host to permit him to return to Lusaka on Monday instead of the originally planned Wednesday, the report said.

President Mwanawasa is accompanied on his visit by First Lady Maureen Mwanawasa, Mines Minister Kaunda Lembali and other senior officials.

Archaeologists unearth whole ancient village in N China

SHIJIAZHUANG, 16 May — An ancient village, apparently buried in an earthquake or flood nearly 700 years ago, has been unearthed in north China’s Hebei Province.

Archaeologists from Hebei Cultural Relics Research Institute said the historic village, located near Liuchengzhu Village in Cangzhou, may have flourished in the Song Dynasty (960-1279) and the Yuan Dynasty (1279-1368).

Copper money from the Song and Yuan, as well as the remains of some pottery vases, bowls, plates and jars, were found at the site, which experts think may have once been a booming commercial centre.

Archaeologists began an excavation in the area in mid-April, before a highway is built nearby. They found cultural deposits belonging to the Song, Yuan and Jin dynasties in 20 pits distributed over a 500-square-metre area. No human remains were found from after the Yuan Dynasty. Historical records say the area suffered four floods and one earthquake at the end of Yuan.

Archaeologists believe the village was ruined in one of the natural disasters.

Anti-aircraft fire blamed for Iraq plane downing: report

BAGHDAD, 16 May — Guerillas armed with basic anti-aircraft weapons likely shot down a British military plane in Iraq earlier this year, killing all 10 servicemen on board, a British newspaper has reported.

An interim report into the cause of Britain’s biggest single-day loss of life in the Iraq campaign had ruled out almost everything apart from enemy fire and it was suggested that a missile or rocket propelled grenade could have brought the Royal Air Force (RAF) craft down.

A military official, however, told the Daily Telegraph that the report concluded that the C-130 Hercules had been shot down by anti-aircraft rounds, as it flew at a low altitude, possibly 20 km.

“It was shredded by a multi-barrelled 20 mm cannon. They have worked out that’s what caused the crash,” the anonymous official was quoted as saying in the newspaper.

The turnover of the four foreign currencies on the Shanghai-based national Forex swap centre totalled 91.397 billion US dollars in the first four months this year, with the daily transaction volume reaching 1.115 billion US dollars.

By the agreements, the Zambian Government will allocate a piece of land in Serenje, Central Province, to Libya for agricultural development.

President Mwanawasa appealed to Libya to extend its expertise in irrigation farming to help Zambia move away from the rain fed farming dependency syndrome.

Zimbabwean farmers urged to protect natural resources

HARARE, 16 May — Zimbabwe Minister of Environment and Tourism Francis Nhema on Saturday urged farmers to establish fireguards around grassy areas to protect their crops and the environment from being destroyed by fires as the country approaches the dry season.

“Negligence has caused many farmers to lose entire crops due to the failure to establish fireguards,” Nhema said. He said that burning of grass not only destroyed crops but also natural resources, thus affecting natural habitants and pasture.

“We are advising new farmers to put up fireguards to guard against fires in order to protect their harvest and the environment,” he said.

He said failure to heed the call would result in the ministry invoking the Environmental Management Act, which provides for punishment of arsonists through fines of up to 500,000 Zimbabwean dollars (about 80 US dollars).

The minister urged the general public to prevent fires and conserve the fauna and flora of the country.

In Zimbabwe, most of the veld fires are started at the beginning of the winter season. Last year, a total of 30,000 hectares of vegetation was destroyed in Mberengwa District from fires.

Family of Australian hostage starts advertising blitz in Iraq

BAGHDAD, 16 May — The family of Australian hostage Douglas Wood has launched an advertising campaign, due to begin in Iraq, to seek help from the public in finding him.

The family has prepared a 30-second television commercial and newspaper advertisements appealing for information about whereabouts of the contractor, seized late last month.

His captors want Australia to pull its troops out of Iraq. Nothing has been heard of Wood, 63, since the kidnappers released a DVD which was broadcast on 6 May and which set a 72-hour deadline for the demand to be met.

“Move out of Iraq or I will be killed,” said an exhausted-looking Wood, pictured with two rifles pointed at his head. His head had been shaved and he had facial bruising. — Internet

Huge Manipur drug haul suggests rebel nexus in N India

NEW DELHI, 16 May — Indian paramilitary troopers and Customs officials had seized a huge haul of marijuana worth 16.5 million rupees (380,000 US dollars) in Indian northeastern province of Manipur, suggesting a possible link between separatists and drug syndicates, Indo-Asian News Service reported.

“This is the biggest ever haul of drugs in Manipur in recent times,” an official said. No one was arrested. Around 6,575 kilos of marijuana were recovered Saturday by a joint team of Assam Rifles and Customs officials from Sanakeithel Village, about 30 kilometres north of Manipur’s capital Imphal, the statement said.

Police and Customs officials believed the marijuana consignment was smuggled into Manipur for transportation to other parts of India and abroad.

There are reports on drugs from this region to Middle East and even to European countries with a big ring involved,” a senior police official said.

Intelligence officials often accuse militant groups operating in the region of being involved in a flourishing narcotics trade.

China to continue seeking long-term friendship with Cuba

HANOI, 17 May — China’s top national adviser Jia Qinglin has said here that China will continue to follow the principle of seeking long-term friendship with Cuba.

Jia made the pledge on Saturday when meeting with Raul Castro Ruz, First Vice-President of the Cuban Council of State and of the Council of Ministers.

China and Cuba, though in different continents, have formed a profound friendship during their exchanges by treating each other sincerely and sharing weal and woe, said Jia, Chairman of the National Committee of the Chinese People’s Political Consultative Conference (CPPCC).

Jia said the Communist Party of China (CPC) and the Chinese Government attach great importance to Sino-Cuban relations and will stick to the principle of seeking long-term friendship with Cuba.

China and Cuba have boosted their political trust and expanded fields of cooperation in recent years, Jia said, noting that Chinese President Hu Jintao’s visit to Cuba in November last year has strongly pushed the mutually beneficial cooperation between the two countries toward all-around development.

China appreciates and thanks Cuba’s consistent and resolute support to China on issues such as the Taiwan question in which China’s fundamental interests lie, Jia said.

This year marks the 45th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Cuba, Jia said, pledging that China will take this opportunity to implement the common understanding reached by leaders of the two countries and to push forward the cooperative ties.

Vietnam to promote shrimp export to US, Japan

HANOI, 17 May — Vietnam will, between 2006 and 2010, focus on shrimp trademark construction and trade promotion in the United States and Japan, the two markets it is facing difficulties, according to the Vietnamese Ministry of Trade on Monday.

Vietnam will pour some 1.4 billion Vietnam-ese dong (VND) (88,600 US dollars) in the activities in the period. Besides, it is improving quality of shrimps, and diversifying products.

The country is encountering difficulties in shipping shrimps to the United States, since the foreign country has required local exporters to pay bonds to insure payment of their anti-dumping duties to the US.

The formula used by the US Customs sets the bond at an amount equal to the exporting country’s current anti-dumping rate multiplied by the gross amount of business done by the exporter in 2004.

For Vietnam’s shrimp exporters as a whole, the 4.58-per-cent anti-dumping rate multiplied by the 420 million US dollars in Vietnamese export receipts in 2004 for shrimp, would equal a total bond value of 20 million US dollars.

Local exporters would receive refunds after the US Department of Commerce reconsiders the shrimp anti-dumping rates in August 2007.

Japan, another important shrimp market of Vietnam, is adopting a wait-and-see attitude, which worries many Vietnamese exporters.

Japanese importers are waiting for prices of the local product to drop due to the export difficulties in the US market.

Bun Scrambling Competition held in HK after 26 years

HONG KONG, 17 May — A unique and traditional Bun Scrambling Competition was held at Cheung Chau island of Hong Kong at midnight Sunday after 26 years’ suspension.

The opening ceremony of the competition started at 11.30 pm and a dozen finalists, selected on 1 May, climbed the 14-metre steel tower to grab the buns for three minutes right after midnight. Those who grabbed the most of buns got the highest score.

The Bun Scrambling Event, a traditional activity of the Cheung Chau Bun Festival, was banned after a tower toppled in 1978, injuring 100 climbers and onlookers.

This year’s event, jointly organized by the Leisure and Cultural Services Department and Hong Kong Cheung Chau Bun Festival Committee, aroused great interest of the city.

Thousands of local residents and visitors flocked to the island to join the traditional event and to watch the competition.

Besides the midnight’s competition, a special parade was held in the afternoon. Children on stilts, lion and unicorn dances paraded on the street of the island.

With the tourists pouring into the island, business runners were benefited.

According to local media reports, hotel rent on the island increased 70 per cent at the weekend.

Bakeries said more than 15,000 buns had been snapped up in the past three days, and they churned out about 10,000 more buns on Sunday to satisfy tourists’ demand.

Pakistan to export 1,000 workers to Malaysia soon

ISLAMABAD, 16 May — Pakistan has initially received a demand of 1,000 general workers from Malaysia, which will be exported soon, the Associated Press of Pakistan reported Sunday. This demand is part of Malaysia’s overall requirement of 100,000 workers to be exported from Pakistan in various sectors, unnamed officials were quoted as saying.

After including Pakistan in the list of manpower source countries, Malaysia has given a target of 100,000 workers to Pakistan.
We all felt like having a nightmare. The questions that we are asking again and again are “Why have they murdered the innocent people brutally?” “Have the victims done anything wrong?” “Have they troubled the terrorists?” “Have they given trouble to the relative of the bombers?” “Have the terrorists blown up the bomb in retaliation for the people who might have done something wrong to them?” “And if not for all those reasons, what is their motive?”

We all the people of the nation have made a firm pledge to crush the terrorists with our united strength, and to ensure national unity and perpetuation of the Union.

Here are two more questions to ponder. “Are the terrorists brutally killing innocent people as an attack on the Government?” “Do they think that the people will turn against the Government and support them because of the terrorist attack?” If so, they will fail to realize their aim, but will meet their tragic end. Not only in Myanmar, but the whole world is collectively opposing and crushing terrorism. The world never accepts terrorism in any form.

The Four Cardinal Values are also against terrorist acts. Hate begets hate, and so does love. The Buddha had already taught us to enhance amity and diminish enmity. His teachings are always true for us. The persons who go against the teachings will meet their tragic downfall. Their sins will continue to follow them till in their future existences. It is the law of Kamma that forgives and spares nobody.

From the religious point of view, the bombers themselves will face a similar fate, and their relatives too will experience the same sufferings. And if they realize their crimes only at that time it will be too late for them. The terrorists will have to amend their way of life in time according to the teachings of Buddha. If not, they will be punished by the people and by their own fate. They cannot escape from punishment whichever country they are living in. Because of their cruelty, they cannot lead a peaceful life.

So, we all the people of the nation have made a firm pledge to crush the terrorists with our own united strength, and to ensure national unity and perpetuation of the Union.

G-4 circulates draft resolution on UNSC reforms

UNited Nations, 17 May — Germany, Japan, Brazil and India, which have campaigned jointly for permanent seats in the UN Security Council, circulated Monday a draft General Assembly resolution calling for an increase of six permanent seats in the Council.

The draft, a copy of which was obtained by Xinhua, stipulates that the six new permanent seats would be divided equally among the four regions — Asia, Africa, Western Europe as well as Latin America and the Caribbean.

The draft also proposes adding four elected non-permanent seats to the Council, with each from Africa, Asia, Eastern Europe as well as Latin America and the Caribbean region. The Council, the only UN organ whose resolutions are legally binding for the 191 UN member states, is currently composed of five permanent members with veto power and 10 elected members with two-year terms.

The draft does not contain a date for a vote on it in the General Assembly, nor does it mention any candidate countries for the proposed new permanent seats. Under the draft, countries aspiring to be a permanent member in the Council should submit their candidatures to the president of the General Assembly after the adoption of the resolution, and then the Assembly would select the six new permanent members through a secret ballot.

If the number of states having obtained the required majority fall short of the number of seats allocated for permanent membership, new rounds of balloting will be conducted for the remaining seats until six states obtain the required majority to occupy the six seats, the draft says.

Germany, Japan, Brazil and India, known as the G-4, will formally introduce the draft at a gathering of UN member states in the German mission to the world body later Monday afternoon. In a sign that the G-4 has not yet given up their demand for the veto power, the draft says the new permanent powers should have the same responsibilities and obligations as the current permanent members. The expansion of the Security Council has been one of the highest-profile part of the UN reforms, with the UN member states sharply divided over whether to expand the permanent membership.

Pakistan, Italy, South Korea and some other countries have been strongly opposed to an increase of the permanent seats on the grounds that such a change would further undermine the effectiveness of the Council.

Maulbin Paper Factory produces 5,000 metric tons of paper per year, said the factory manager.

Afterwards, the minister and party arrived at workshop No 5 of the Agricultural Mechanization Department (AMD) in Maulbin. Director-General of AMD reported to the minister on production of agricultural machinery including spare parts manufactured by the light and heavy industries under the department.

Iran, EU to hold talks on 23 May

TEHERAN, 17 May — Iranian Foreign Minister Kamal Kharazi said here Monday that the next round of nuclear negotiations between Iran and the European Union (EU) was scheduled on 23 May, the official IRNA news agency reported.

“The talks will be held at ministerial level, and Iran’s Secretary of Supreme National Security Council Hassan Rowhani is to take part in this round of talks,” Kharazi was quoted as saying. Kharazi was quoted as saying that the place of negotiations had not been determined yet. Foreign Ministry spokesman Hamid-Reza Asefi was quoted on Sunday that the next meeting, upon the request of the EU, the UN and some countries such as Russia and Spain, would be Europe’s last chance to save its diplomatic efforts on the Iranian nuclear issue.

Rowhani also said that Iran was ready to continue negotiations with Europe but would not compromise on its legal and legitimate international rights. The bi-lateral negotiations on Iran’s nuclear case reached a deadlock after Teheran, impatient of the “prolonged negotiations”, in late April announced an immediate resumption of some suspended uranium enrichment activities. Iran froze its enrichment activities on 22 November, 2004 in exchange for EU’s promised economic and technological incentives after the two sides reached an indeed fragile agreement in Paris. However, during the consequent talks, the EU turned down Teheran’s proposal of keeping restricted enrichment activities while providing other guarantees of the peaceful nature of its nuclear programme, which angered Iran.

French Ex-Minister refutes US on oil-for-food report

PARIS, 17 May — Former French Interior Minister Charles Pasqua on Monday refuted a US report that accused him of taking bribe in the UN oil-for-food programme in Iraq.

“I don’t have the impression that I am a victim. I have the impression that I am being used,” Pasqua told journalists.

“I totally refute the part of the report that refers to me,” he said.

“If my name appears in certain Iraqi documents, that can only be the result of fraudulent behaviour on the part of certain people who have used my name,” said Pasqua, who is also French senator.

He accused the US Senate panel of using him as a way to discredit President Jacques Chirac.

“Probably, they think I am close to Jacques Chirac and that I am his adviser. By choosing me, they hope to get at him,” he added.

On 12 May, a US Senate committee released a report on its investigation into the UN oil-for-food programme, accusing Pasqua and the British parliamentary George Gal- loway of taking millions of barrels of oil from Saddam Hussein’s government in return for their support.

The oil-for-food programme, established in December 1996, permitted Iraq to sell its oil and use those proceeds to purchase food, medicines, and other humanitarian goods, in order to ease the impact of UN sanctions on Iraqs.

“I never went to Iraq, I never met Saddam Hussein and I never met with any Iraqis,” Pasqua noted. He wrote in a letter to Chirac released to the Press on Monday: “The French authorities would be making a grave mistake if they were to take these issues too lightly.”

France says developing countries top WTO’s priorities

PARIS, 17 May — French External Trade Minister Francois Loos on Monday said that the World Trade Organization’s (WTO) priority is to find how to bring more development in developing countries.

To reform the WTO, “is not necessarily the top priority because the WTO works as what it is,” Loos said at BFMT radio.

“We are capable, by opening our markets in some fields, of giving a development potential to others, and does it work in a balanced manner? We have the impression in Europe that we have much opened and given and that our American friends are much behind us in this field,” he said.

The French minister also hailed that Pascal Lamy’s nomination as head of the WTO would be “an excellent news.”

It would be “an excellent news because we know well Pascal Lamy, even though we do not always agree (with him). It is someone who has an extremely rigorous spirit, with whom we can discuss,” Loos said.

But he added that Lamy’s role was not to negotiate, his role will be to let things pass smoothly.

“It is not him who will make the proposals. It is not him who negotiates. He should ease the negotiation between the (148 member states) of the WTO.”

France’s former European Union (EU) Trade Commissioner Pascal Lamy was chosen Friday as the next head of the WTO. He would be officially nominated on 26 May by the member states at the general council if no one opposes to it. — MNA/Xinhua
Experts call for concerted efforts to stem illicit arms in Africa

NAIROBI, 17 May — Government experts from 11 African countries have urged concerted efforts to address the proliferation of illicit weapons in the region.

Speaking during the opening of the five-day regional meeting in Nairobi, Kenya’s Foreign Affairs Permanent Secretary Boaz Mbayo said without regional cooperation in eliminating illicit small arms and light weapons, peace and stability will remain a pipe dream in the entire region.

“We hope that once the Somali Government relocates back to its country, it will be able to deal with demobilization and to collect these arms,” Mbayo said. About 60 experts from the region are meeting to review progress that has been made so far in reducing the flow of small arms. The participants are drawn from Kenya, Burundi, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Eritrea, Tanzania, Uganda, Seychelles, Ethiopia, Rwanda, Djibouti and Sudan.

Coordinator of the Nairobi Secretariat on Small Arms and Light Weapons Francis Sang said around 30 million illegal arms are in circulation in sub-Saharan Africa, fuelling conflicts and destroying lives and property across the continent.

“We are in the process of ratifying the Nairobi Protocol by June before the next ministerial meeting. We expect that before the next ministerial meeting in June all the countries must have been able to ratify,” Sang said.

“Three countries of Eritrea, Ethiopia and Uganda have ratified. The rest are in advanced stage of ratifying. I am very optimistic that by June 20, all would have ratified,” he added.

In April 2004, the 11 countries from the Great Lakes and the Horn of Africa signed an agreement in Kenya to combat illicit manufacturing, trafficking and use of small arms in the subregion.

Abbas calls for fair solution to Israeli-Palestinian conflict

RAMALLAH, 17 May — Palestinian leader Mahmoud Abbas called on Sunday for a fair solution to the decades-long Israeli-Palestinian conflict as Palestinians mourn over the sufferings following the birth of the state of Israel.

Abbas made the remarks in a pre-recorded speech aired to the nation on the occasion of marking the 57th anniversary of Al-Nakba (Catastrophe) Day which commemorates the grief of thousands of Palestinians forced to flee homes after the Arab-Israeli war broke out on 15 May, 1948, one year after the establishment of Israel.

Abbas said “the Palestinian people will never forget their sufferings inflicted by Israel’s destruction of their homes and denial of their right of return.”

Calling for the end of Israel’s occupation, Abbas vowed to establish an independent Palestinian state with Jerusalem as its capital, adding “there is an issue of refugees must be fairly resolved according to UN Resolution 194”.

Abbas said “peace and security in the region are linked to finding a fair and just solution based on implementing the international resolutions, “he said. Latest Palestinian official statistics show that some three million Palestinian refugees are living in Jordan and nearly one million in Lebanon and Syria.

The United Nations has passed several resolutions calling on Israel to allow Palestinian refugees to return.

Israel, however, categorically rejected it, fearing an influx of Palestinian refugees might shake its demographic structure.

“The international community should understand the dangers of keeping millions of refugees without hope and without a future,” Abbas warned.

Palestinians reject the proposal of resettling the refugees in Arab countries and their presence there is temporary, “he added.

Meanwhile, thousands of Palestinians took to the streets in the Gaza Strip and West Bank, waving Palestinian flags and chanting slogans “no for settling refugees, yes for right of return.” — MNA/Xinhua

Iran urges EU to seize last chance to save nuclear talks

TEHERAN, 17 May — Iran warned the European Union (EU) on Sunday that the next round of negotiators between the two sides will be the last chance to save the stalled nuclear talks.

“Iran has decided to negotiate with the European trio (France, Germany and Britain) for one more time upon their request, and the upcoming meeting will be their last chance,” Foreign Ministry spokesman Hamid-Reza Asefi told a weekly news briefing.

Iran’s decision was made also at the behest of the international community, including the United Nations, Spain, Japan, South Africa, Malaysia and Russia, Asefi added.

Iran’s Parliament, meanwhile, approved a bill to press the government to resume uranium enrichment activities, which Teheran suspended last November to pave the way for talks with the EU on its disputed nuclear programme.

Washington and the EU have threatened to refer Iran’s case to the UN Security Council for possible sanctions if Iran restarts enrichment-related work.

However, Iran shrugged off the warning. “The referral does not worry us at all. If the case is taken to the Security Council, the European countries and the United States will sustain more damages than Iran,” the spokesman said.

“No matter whether there is an agreement (with the EU) or not, we will resume some enrichment activities,” Asefi said. “We will not give up our rights and will carry out our activities under the related regulations.”

Blaming the EU for prolonging negotiations, Iran has announced that it is going to restart part of the suspended enrichment-related activities, maybe some of those in the uranium conversion facility near Isfahan.

But the exact date of the resumption has not been set yet.

The EU powers France, Britain and Germany have tried to persuade Iran to abandon its uranium enrichment programme in return for economic and political incentives.

The EU shared Washington’s suspicions that Iran’s uranium enrichment programme could be used to make nuclear weapons.

Teheran claims its nuclear programme is intended only for producing fuel for power plant and it will never use it to give rise to its technological and nuclear status. — MNA/Xinhua

Clinical test of China’s AIDS vaccine enters second phase

Beijing, 16 May — Six Chinese volunteers Saturday received shots AIDS DNA vaccine, starting the second phase of clinical test of a vaccine developed by Chinese scientists, the state media reported.

The medicine is composed of two gene vaccines, one contains DNA of AIDS virus and the other carries pox virus.

The volunteers in south China’s Guangxi Zhuang autonomous region will receive the pox virus vaccine in three months, director of the cell laboratory under the Institute for the Control of Drugs and Biological Products, Wu Youyun said. The AIDS DNA vaccine helps human antibodies and cells to form the immunity against AIDS virus, and the pox virus vaccine helps strengthen the immunity, Beijing Youth Daily reported.

The safety of the two gene vaccines have been tested respectively in the first phase in previous months. The second phase of test is to examine their combined safety, which means to vaccinate each volunteer of the two vaccines in two times, Wang said.

The clinical test of the vaccine began on March 12 this year. As of today, 28 volunteers have received the vaccine. All of them are in sound health condition, the report said.

China now has 840,000 HIV carriers including 80,000 AIDS patients with rapid spread from high-risk to other sections of the population.

The AIDS DNA vaccine has been developed by a team led by Prof. Wu Youyun from the Institute for the Control of Drugs and Biological Products and Prof. Liang Jing from the Pharmacology Institute of the Chinese Academy of Sciences.

Kuwait’s oil reserve jumps by 818 million barrels

KUWAIT CITY, 16 May — Kuwait’s oil reserve increased in 2004-2005 by around 818 million barrels while production reached record levels to 2.4 million barrels per day (BPD), the Kuwait News Agency reported on Sunday.

Kuwait’s oil reserve, following the increase, reaches around 97.3 billion barrels from 96.5 billion barrels in 2003, Ali Al-Shammari, assistant managing director for administration of the Kuwait Oil Company (KOC), was quoted as saying.

Al-Shammari said Kuwait oil barrel production cost was around one US dollar, the lowest worldwide, adding in addition to the high oil output, Kuwait was producing some 1.1 billion cubic metres of gas.

The official, meanwhile, pointed out that future challenge for KOC was increasing production capacity to 4 million bpd by 2020, amidst anticipation that global oil demand would jump to 114 million bpd within 15 years.

The KOC would also sign a one billion-dollar agreement at the end of this year to develop its exporting facilities to increase Kuwait’s export capabilities, said Al-Shammari.

Kuwait is the fourth largest in the Organization of Petroleum-Exporting Countries (OPEC) after Saudi Arabia, Iran and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) in terms of oil reserve, according to the report. — MNA/Xinhua

Iran rules out compromise on nuclear right

TEHERAN, 16 May — Iran’s chief nuclear negotiator Hassan Rowhani said Sunday that Iran is ready to continue negotiations with the European Union (EU) but will not compromise on its legitimate nuclear rights, the official IRNA news agency reported.

Rowhani reiterated Iran was determined to resume part of enrichment-related activities as the nuclear talks came to a standstill.

“Iran’s decision to resume activities in uranium conversion facility still holds,” he said. “We are willing to hold negotiations, but we cannot negotiate under the present conditions.”

Iran suspended its uranium enrichment activities last November to pave the way for talks with the EU trio Britain, France and Germany on its disputed nuclear programme.

However, Iran refused to permanently freeze the uranium enrichment in the following talks, insisting it will never give up its legitimate rights on peaceful nuclear technology.

Instead, Tehran proposed to keep limited enriched uranium activities under supervision of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), a suggestion turned down by the EU.

Iranian Foreign Ministry spokesman Hamid Reza Asefi warned the EU on Sunday that the next round of negotiations between the two sides will be the last chance to save the stalled nuclear talks.

“Iran has decided to negotiate with the European trio for one more time upon their request, and the upcoming meeting will be their last chance,” he told a weekly news briefing.

Yangtze River faces flood threat in coming months

NANCHANG, 16 May — The Yangtze River areas will receive more rain this year than last year and will be under threat in the coming June-August flood season.

Cloudy and rainy weather has lingered at the middle and lower reaches of the river since the beginning of spring, and several hydrological stations have reported record high levels of water, said Cai Qihua, director of the Yangtze River Water Resources Committee.

He made the remarks at a meeting on flood control of the Yangtze River Sunday in Nanchang, capital of east China’s Jiangxi Province.

The Yangtze River, historically rampant with flooding, was spared slightly last year. But typhoons, mud-rock flows and landslides still occurred in some flooded areas.

China to boost sports undertakings for public

BEIJING, 17 May—China has witnessed rapid development of sports undertakings for public, its per capita consumption and the population engaged in regular physical exercises are far lower than developed countries, said a senior Chinese sports official here on Monday.

Liu Peng, head of the State Administration of Sport, said that the first two decades of the 21st Century are a critical period for China's social undertakings, including sports undertakings.

With China's surging economy and people's rising living standards, the public demand for sports infrastructure is also growing, and the current low usage of existing sports facilities, said Liu at the sports round-table meeting of the Ninth Fortune Global Forum.

“China needs to broaden our vision so as to boost the development of sports undertakings with wider mass participation,” he said. He hoped that the 2008 Beijing Olympics, a historic event to the whole country, will serve as an impetus to the comprehensive, harmonious and sustainable development of China's physical culture sector.

China now has more than 30,000 professional athletes, some of whom have performed excellently in many international competitions, and more than 400 million common people participating in physical exercises.

China will also promote international exchanges in the field of physical culture, Liu said, adding that the country has joined the global cooperation in promoting the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to draft an international convention against doping.

Khan aims for boxing world title in three years

LISBON, 17 May—Britain's Olympic boxing silver medallist Amir Khan plans to be fighting for a world title in three years and retired from the sport in eight years.

Khan, 18, turned professional on Saturday after beating Cuban's Mario Kindelan to avenge his defeat in last year's Olympic lightweight final.

"There is a plan. I want to try and get a title fight in three years' time, so now I am going to train hard for that," he said.

"I feel ready for it," said Khan, who is in Estoril for the Laureus World Sports Awards where he has been nominated for newcomer of the year.

"I will have to change my style a bit, I think. In the longer rounds — and more rounds. It is going to be harder.

"But I adapted quickly from being a cadet to going senior, I missed junior out. I did that well, so I don't expect it to be a problem," added the teenager.

Khan said he wanted to have retired from the sport by the age of 26.

"I don't want to stay in the game too long. After that age, you start getting hurt. Eight or nine years as a professional is enough I think," he said.

Khan's promoter Frank Warren has said he expects the boxer to make his professional debut in July.

"It could be in July," Khan said. "If I am ready for that, it might be the one. Let's see if I feel okay for it.

"Asked about Kindelan, who had beaten him twice before, Khan said he hoped to see more of the Cuban.—MNA/Xinhua

Int'l media urged to take just attitude when covering China's stories

BEIJING, 17 May — International media should abide by the principles of objectivity and justice when they report news stories about China, said a senior official with the State Council Information Office (SCIO) here Monday.

China is unsatisfactory about some foreign media’s news coverage of China, which was biased and exaggerated, Zhao Qizheng, head of the SCIO, said at the Fortune Global Forum round-table meeting for cultural issues, which was held on Monday in Beijing. Some of the media took romours as official information when they report on China, Zhao said.

Some foreign media used to “exaggerate China’s growth and help fabricating a theory of “China Threat,” and commentaries for such purpose were even more biased than related news, said Zhao. From ancient times to nowadays, China has never had the thoughts, needs and abilities to encroach on other peoples in the world, he said.

“As for critiques about China’s shortcomings, including those in human right issues, China would like to consult them, if they are accurate and well-intended,” Zhao said.

“But we are afraid that some media, out of negative considerations, attempt to dig out the so-called facts, yet inaccurately at all, to prove the conclusion that China is not good, which they’ve already kept in mind,” Zhao said. He said that when he met some foreign friends, more of them expressed their hope for understanding the development trend of China’s economy and what opportunities they could share from them.

“The Chinese Government always encourages domestic media to cover China’s progress and shortcomings, and inspires them to tell the truth and let the readers to make their own judgment,” Zhao said.
