Transport facilities — prospects for national development

Smooth transport is the most fundamental factor for the development and swift commodity flow of a region.

Thanks to the emergence of the Twantay Bridge inaugurated on 25 May, Yangon is easily accessible from Dedyae, Pyapon and Bogale townships in Ayeyawady Division via Twantay and Kungyangon by passing the Dedyae Bridge. In addition, it links with Maubin-Hlinethaya-Yangon No 5 Union Highway, the first gateway to Ayeyawady Division.

The transport link adds considerable comfort and convenience to the commodity flow and the transport sector between the townships in Ayeyawady Division as well as between Ayeyawady Division and Yangon Division.

The Twantay Bridge across the Twantay Canal in Twantay Township in Yangon South District is 840 feet long and is of steel suspension type. It has a 28-foot-wide motor way on it. Its clearance area is 45 feet high and 700 feet wide. It can withstand a load of 60 tons.

So far, Yangon Division has witnessed 26 large bridges including the Twantay Bridge. Thanlyin Bridge (2) over the Bago River, Ngamoeyeik bridge (Kamakyi) over the Ngamoeyeik Creek and Kayan Bridge over the Kayan Creek are under constructions.

To this date, the government has made a huge investment of funds, manpower, heavy machinery and technologies in the road and bridge projects to increase the number of the over-180-foot bridges throughout the nation to 215.

Roads and bridges can enhance the strength of the nation. The bridges across the nation are raising the socio-economic life of the people and bringing prospects for sustainable development of the nation.
Hu Jintao vows to enhance anti-terrorism work with SCO members

SHANGHAI, 15 June — Chinese President Hu Jintao on Wednesday vowed to strengthen coordination and support for the work of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization Regional Anti-Terrorism Structure (RATS).

Hu made the remarks while meeting with his Uzbek counterpart Islam Karimov, who arrived in the Chinese economic hub Wednesday to attend the SCO summit scheduled on Thursday.

To fight the 'three evil forces' including the 'East Turkistan' force and safeguard security and stability in the region is in the common interests of China and Uzbekistan, as well as all the other countries there," he said.

Hu hailed China-Uzbek relationship, saying it features political support, deepening cooperation and close coordination, and it contributes to regional and global peace and stability.

Karimov said that Uzbekistan is satisfied with the booming cooperation with China in all fields, saying that Uzbek people have received support and help from China on hard occasions.

“Baa, Baa Black Sheep” blacklisted by Indian state

NEW DELHI, 15 June — An Indian state has removed nursery rhymes such as “Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star” and “Baa, Baa Black Sheep” from its primary school syllabus because they are “too Western”, newspapers said on Wednesday. The government in the central state of Madhya Pradesh, run by the Hindu nationalist Bharatiya Janata Party, dropped the rhymes, immensely popular with children, from its Class 1 syllabus taught to five-year-olds.

“We want our children to have value education in local colour,” the Hindu Times quoted Narottam Mishra, the state's school education minister as saying. Children will now learn English-language rhymes written by Indian poets, papers said.

US death toll in Iraq hits 2,500

LONDON, 15 June — The number of US troops killed in Iraq has reached 2,500 with the death of a marine, the Pentagon has announced.

It did not identify the 2,500th casualty, in line with US policy not to release details until 24 hours after the family has been informed.

A Pentagon statement said 1,972 of those who died were killed in action.

The campaign group Iraq Body Count estimates that the number of civilians killed since the outset of the conflict ranges between 38,355 and 42,747.

It makes its calculation on the basis of media reports, and believes it to be a conservative estimate.

Other reports put the number of civilian casualties much higher.

Thousands of Iraqi security forces, military personnel from other countries, and Iraqi and foreign guerrillas have also died.

European, Arab countries see US troops more threatening than Iran

WASHINGTON, 15 June — The people of a number of European and Islamic countries see the US military presence in Iraq more threatening to the Middle East than Iran, according to a recent survey.

The survey results released here on Tuesday by Pew Research Centre showed citizens of Britain, France, Germany, Spain and Russia regard the US presence in Iraq as a worse problem than Iran.

Views on US troops in Iraq are more negative in countries of the Islamic world such as Indonesia, Egypt, Jordan, Turkey and Pakistan.

Even in Britain, the key US ally in Iraq, 41 per cent of the poll respondents say the US military presence in Iraq poses a threat to world peace while only 34 per cent believe that Iran is a danger.

The majority of the people in the countries surveyed say the Iraq war has made the world more dangerous.

The survey also found overwhelming support for the US-led war on terrorism has declined in these countries, even among close US allies.

The poll was conducted in April and May.

US Senate rebuffs Bush on war budgeting

WASHINGTON, 15 June — The US Senate voted unanimously on Wednesday to force President George W Bush to submit a budget for the Iraq and Afghanistan wars instead of financing them in emergency bills that are pushed through Congress with minimal scrutiny.

As Congress prepared to pass an emergency bill with 65.8 billion US dollars the Pentagon urgently wanted for the wars, the Senate voted 98-0 to end the practice and make the administration lay out the wars’ expected costs in its annual budget submitted to Congress in February.

The vote came on an amendment to legislation spelling out defence policies for next year that is expected to trigger a broader debate on Iraq. Senator John Kerry of Massachusetts said he would push an amendment calling for the withdrawal of US troops by the end of this year, while other Democrats are considering measures calling for a phased withdrawal.

Including the latest emergency bill, the war’s cost will reach 420 billion US dollars, said Senator John McCain, an Arizona Republican who sponsored the amendment. “We’re adding hundreds of billions to conveniently named emergency expenditures” that do not have to be accounted for in the budget, he said. The amendment would only apply to war spending and would allow additional emergency Pentagon spending with justification. The House of Representatives passed its version of the defence authorization bill in May without a similar measure to end the war supplements.

China-ASEAN trade increases by 20% during past 15 years

NANNING, 15 June — The bilateral trade volume between China and the ASEAN (Association of South-East Asian Nations) members increased at an annual rate of 20 per cent during the past 15 years, according to a source with the upcoming summit meeting of the third China-ASEAN exposition.

Wu Zhengping, vice-director of the Asian department of the Ministry of Commerce, said China and ASEAN members made great achievements in economic cooperation during the past 15 years, which is proved by the rapidly growing bilateral trade volume.

In 2005, trade value between China and ASEAN member countries reached 130.3 billion US dollars, increasing 23 per cent on a year-on-year basis.

From January to April in 2006, the bilateral trade volume amounted to 47 billion US dollars, growing 22 per cent, said the official. ASEAN has become China’s fourth largest trade partner after the United States, European Union and Japan last year. At the same time, Chinas also the fourth largest trade partner of ASEAN.

Wonderful Life tops US film list

LONDON, 15 June—Frank Capra’s classic film It’s a Wonderful Life has topped a list of the 100 most inspirational films compiled by the American Film Institute (AFI). The 1946 movie starred James Stewart as George Bailey, a man on the brink of suicide who turns his life around after a visit from an angel. To Kill A Mockingbird was second, followed by Schindler’s List, Rocky and Mr Smith Goes to Washington.

Attempts to scare the beasts away by setting fires, blowing trumpets and setting off crackers failed.

“They come back almost every night and romp through human habitation, forcing many to flee,” one forest official said. Terrified, some 300 villagers — including children — took refuge on boats in the sprawling Rangamati Lake, coming ashore only in daylight hours for food and other provisions.

“These people are farmers and loggers. Now they have no work or money,” one Barkal official told reporters.

RANGAMATI, 15 June—Hundreds of villagers have taken refuge on boats in Bangladesh after their homes were destroyed by a herd of rampaging elephants, local officials said on Wednesday.

The elephants repeatedly raided their village at Barkal on the fringe of a forest in southeastern Bangladesh’s Chittagong Hill Tracts, pulling down houses and plundering crops.

Indian shares stage record rise
LONDON, 15 June—Indian share prices surged on Thursday to close 6.9% higher, marking their highest ever single-day rise. Bargain-hunting traders and foreign investors bought shares after three days of heavy losses on the market, regaining some of the lost ground.

Dealers said that the strongest gains came among motor manufacturers and producers of consumer goods. The Bombay Stock Exchange's benchmark exchange, the 30-share Sensex index rose 615.62 points to 9,545.06. Overseas money had helped the market's momentum, said Vijay Tilakraj, senior dealer with brokerage Prabhudas Liladher. "This was completely unexpected, but a welcome relief after the carnage," he added.

Motorbike and scooter maker Bajaj Auto and cement manufacturer Grasim led the way, both gaining 14%. Indian shares have fallen sharply since 10 May, when the benchmark index reached a record high of 12,612 points. The markets have been volatile, having surged last Friday by 5.5%, only to lose ground again on Monday, Tuesday and then Wednesday, when it closed below the 9,000-point mark. — INTERNET

Most Chinese people satisfied with national conditions
WASHINGTON, 15 June — Eighty-one per cent of China's population is satisfied with the way things are going in their country, an increase of nine percentage points from last year, a new poll about global attitudes and views released on Tuesday showed.

The annual survey, conducted by the Pew Research Center in 15 countries in April and May this year, found most samples of citizens from different countries surveyed were dissatisfied with their national conditions.

In the United States, for example, only 29 percent of those surveyed said they were satisfied with the way things were going in their country, down from 39 percent last year and 50 per cent in 2003.

In Britain, the level of national satisfaction fell from last year's 44 per cent to just 35 per cent this year, while in France, only 20 per cent said they were satisfied with their national conditions, down from 28 per cent in 2005.

Public discontent was even higher in Nigeria, where only 7 per cent of Nigerians had a positive view of the state of their nation.

In the 15 countries where the survey was conducted, apart from China, the only countries to show a majority expressing satisfaction with their national conditions were in Egypt (55 per cent), Jordan (53 per cent) and Spain (50 per cent), besides China.

The poll of some 17,000 people in 15 countries, including China, Egypt, France, Germany, Britain, India, Indonesia, Japan, Jordan, Nigeria, Pakistan, Russia, Spain, Turkey and the United States, had a margin of error ranging from two to six percentage points. — MNA/Xinhua

British crime assets body admits falling behind
LONDON, 15 June — A government agency set up by Prime Minister Tony Blair to confiscate the assets of criminals acknowledged on Wednesday it was falling behind after figures showed it was recovering less money than it costs to run.

The Assets Recovery Agency blamed longer than expected legal procedures for the slow pace of receipts — just over £3million pounds since starting operations in 2003 — compared to running costs of just under £20 million pounds a year. Conservative MP Grant Shapps, who obtained the figures in parliamentary questions, blamed the agency's failings on the government's incorporation of human rights laws into British legislation. He said the laws had opened the door for the legal delays dodging the agency's attempts to recover nearly 70 million pounds of criminal assets subject to freezing orders. "Applying a freeze is one thing — selling off the proceeds of crime for the benefit of the public is quite another," said Shapps.

In the last year the agency contributed just 2.75 million pounds to the 83 million pounds of assets confiscated by police, Customs and other law enforcement bodies.

Jane Earl, director of the agency, told BBC radio it was taking longer than originally expected to get hold of the frozen funds. "The time taken to get a case from being referred to us by a law enforcement agency to completion ... is longer than we had hoped for," she said.

Two foreign soldiers killed in Afghan clashes
KABUL, 15 June — Two foreign soldiers have been killed in the latest clashes in the most serious spell of violence in Afghanistan since the Taliban were overthrown in 2001, military officials said on Wednesday.

An American soldier was killed in the southern province of Helmand on Tuesday, said Major Quentin Innes, a spokesman for international forces in the Afghan south. The US military said another foreign soldier was killed in the eastern province of Kunar, also on Tuesday. The US military did not identify the nationality of the second soldier.

Nearly 40 foreign soldiers have been killed in combat in Afghanistan this year, nearly 30 of them Americans.

In total, more than 900 people have been killed in violence in Afghanistan this year, more than 400 in May. — MNA/Reuters

Thousands marooned, 12 killed in South Asia floods
GUWAHATI (India), 15 June — Nearly half a million people have been marooned by flooding in Bangladesh this week, while in neighbouring northeast India at least 10 people have been killed by overflowing rivers, landslides and lightning.

Officials on the Indian side said on Wednesday that thousands of people in the state of Assam had moved to higher ground as rivers, swollen by heavy monsoon rains, burst their banks and inundated more than 50 villages.

"We have asked flood control officials to strengthen embankments to prevent breaches and are constantly monitoring the situation," said Assam Chief Secretary S Kabilan. Police said deaths had been reported over the past two days from western Assam and the neighbouring state of Tripura.

In Bangladesh, officials said torrents had swept two people to death after the Matamuhuri River flooded several villages at Chokoria, 350 kilometres (220 miles) southeast of the capital, Dhaka.

Thousands of homes, miles of road and hundreds of acres of cropland were flooded in the northeastern region of Sylhet, where the banks of the Kushira and Surma rivers were both flowing above their danger levels. — MNA/Reuters

Italy starts withdrawing 1,000 troops from Iraq

Rome, 15 June—Around 1,000 Italian soldiers in Iraq started handing over their duty to comrades on Wednesday, in the first step toward a full withdrawal by the autumn, the ANSA news agency reported. The Sassari regiment is expected to return home by June 28, leaving the number of Italian troops in Iraq at around 1,600. Italy sent 3,200 troops to the southern Iraqi city of Nassiriya in June 2003 to support the US-led invasion. The force was reduced to 2,900 in September 2005 and a further 300 troops were pulled out in January this year. Italian Prime Minister Romano Prodi, who narrowly beat Silvio Berlusconi in the April general election, has recently condemned the Iraq war as a “grave error” which created “new pretexts for terrorist actions”. His centre-left government pledged to bring all troops home by autumn this year. While affirming his commitment to close ties with Washington, the former European Commission boss has made it clear that Europe is now the anchor of Italy’s foreign policy. In an open letter published on Wednesday by the Wall Street Journal, Italian Foreign Minister Massimo D’Alema echoed Prodi’s remarks. “The new government in Rome is committed to building a stronger Euro-Atlantic community...The community I have in mind remains grounded in NATO but must also rely on a strong and united Europe,” D’Alema said.

Survey shows Singapore’s population growing older

Singapore, 15 June—Singapore’s population is growing older with residents aged 65 years and above accounting for 8.4 per cent of the population in 2005, up from 7.3 per cent in 2000, according to the latest results of General Household Survey.

Released by the Singapore Department of Statistics (SDS) Wednesday, the survey results showed that the ratio of residents aged 65 years and above to those aged 15 to 64 years was 12 per 1000 in 2005, as compared with 10 per hundred five years ago. The survey also found that more Singaporeans chose to delay marriage and family formation while the average number of children born per ever-married resident female dropped slightly from 2.5 in 2000 to 2.4 in 2005. Singapore’s resident labour force saw an annual expansion of 2 per cent from year 2000 to 2005, with growth rate for females being higher than that for males, according to the survey.

The average number of working hours per week in Singapore rose from 47.9 in 2000 to 48.4 in 2005 while the proportion of resident working persons who worked 60 hours or more per week increased from 17 per cent to 19 per cent during the same period.

The survey also offers information on the educational profile of Singapore residents, the predominant language at home in different ethnic groups and some characteristics of employment in the city state.

Study shows taste for meat and fish inherited

London, 15 June—Children inherit their taste for meat and fish but when it comes to vegetables and desserts it is more nurture than nature, according to a study on Wednesday. Scientists who compared the food preferences of identical and fraternal twins found that some tastes are inherited while others are acquired. “This is the first study to include significant numbers of protein foods and the first to show a high heritability for these,” said Professor Jane Wardle of the charity Cancer Research Britain. Mothers of 103 pairs of four and five-year-old identical twins and 111 pairs of non-identical twins were given lists of 77 foods in different categories and told to rate how much their children liked them. Identical twins shared all the same genes while fraternal twins share only half, so comparing their food preferences highlights which tastes are inherited and which are influenced by environmental factors. The scientists determined the heritability by looking at how similar the identical and fraternal twins’ liking for foods were.

World Cup TV audience grows, but still lags '98

LONDON, 16 June — World Cup soccer TV audiences have reawakened from their slumber during the tournament four years ago in Korea and Japan, but with fewer games being shown on free TV, viewership is still down from 1998. Through the first 11 matches of this year’s World Cup in Germany, television audiences around the globe are up 21 per cent from 2002, according to data released on Wednesday by media buying firm Initiative, but are 10 per cent off the figures from the 1998 competition in France which provides a similar time zone comparison.

“One of the most important reasons for the figures against the 1998 audience is that there is an increasing number of matches broadcast on cable and satellite rather than on free-to-air TV,” said Kevin Alavy, the Initiative analyst compiling the global viewership figures.

This World Cup is the first to have games being shown on the Internet and on mobile phones, though the effect on TV viewership is still unknown. Britain’s public broadcaster, the BBC, is broadcasting many of the matches for free over broadband, and Hutchinson Whampoa’s 3 is streaming all 64 to its mobile customers in Italy, but neither would disclose audience figures.

The World Cup is typically the most-watched event in the world, with an audience of more than 5 billion expected over the month-long tournament this time.

Viewership figures suffered in 2002 because the matches were played in South Korea and Japan, meaning they were often shown live early in the morning in Europe and Latin America. While time zones are not an important factor affecting TV audiences this year, the broadcasters that acquired the rights have been.

For example, in Portugal, the games shown on free-to-air channel SIC have been drawing an average audience of 1.6 million, Alavy said, while those shown on pay channel SportTV have had only about 13,000.

India may launch international news channel

NEW DELHI, 16 June — India may launch an international news channel, sans Doordarshan, which will be modelled on the lines of BBC and CNN, a senior government official has said.

“We have had some initial discussions on the matter after the idea was raised by the industry,” Information and Broadcasting Secretary S K Arora told PTI here.

According to informed sources, the proposal for the channel — Channel Asia — can cost the government nothing less than a whopping 350 rupees crore, which among other things would be required for placing correspondents in various countries and setting up infrastructure.

Arora said the matter was in an “infancy stage” and nothing concrete has been worked out so far regarding the launch of the channel, which aims to project India “as it stands today” in the global context.

“The idea is to have an autonomous channel on the lines of BBC and CNN. If it goes ahead, it will have correspondents in all major cities of the world, including in Asia, Europe and North America,” Arora said. — MNA/PTI

Singapore to impose restrictions on smoking at food outlets

SINGAPORE, 16 June — Smoking at food outlets in Singapore will be restricted to certain designated areas from 1 July this year, Channel NewsAsia reported on Thursday.

The new rules stipulate that a food outlet can designate 10 per cent of its sheltered seating capacity and 20 per cent of its open-air seating space as smoking corners.

While non-smokers welcome the implementation of such restrictions, food outlet owners expect a drop of up to 30 per cent in their businesses at the initial stage. They fear that there may not be enough space to accommodate their customers as most of them are retirees and smokers who usually hang out for a long time.

There is also concern that the move can hardly prevent second-hand smoke from blowing around to affect non-smokers, which is one of the main reasons for the action, said the report.

There are more than 7,000 food outlets including cafes, coffee shops and hawker centres throughout Singapore. About 2,000 of them have already marked smoking areas and another 200 have chosen to be smoke-free. Smokers who violate the rules will be fined 200 Singapore dollars (about 126 US dollars) while food outlet managers will be fined 200 Singapore dollars for first-time offence and 500 Singapore dollars (about 314 US dollars) for subsequent offences.

Singapore has banned smoking at bus shelters and interchanges, public pools and toilets, community clubs and open-air stadiums since October last year, and the ban will be extended to entertainment outlets such as pubs, clubs and karaoke lounges in July next year.

Nepal plans to ban smoking in public places

KATHMANDU, 16 June — Nepal plans to ban smoking in public places and tobacco advertisements in newspapers, a government official said on Wednesday, a day after the Supreme Court ordered authorities to outlaw the two.

Officials said the ban would apply to government offices, hospitals, schools and public transport, among others. “We will prepare a tobacco control act that will ban smoking in public places,” Rishi Raj Bhandari, a Health Ministry official, told Reuters.

He did not say when the government planned to make the new law. The Supreme Court, in response to a petition to ban smoking in public places on health grounds, also ordered the government to ban advertisements of tobacco products in newspapers and magazines.

Tobacco advertisements are already banned on radio and television in Nepal, where about 15,000 people die annually from tobacco related diseases. The cigarette industry contributes 55 million US dollars in annual revenue to the government and employs about 50,000 people. —MNA/Reuters

Excess pounds may raise ovarian cancer risk

NEW YORK, 16 June — Being overweight in young adulthood or later in life may raise a woman’s risk of ovarian cancer, particularly if she has never had children, researchers have found.

In a study of 2,110 women with and without ovarian cancer, researchers found that those who were relatively heavy, either in recent years or at the age of 18, were more likely than thinner women to develop the disease.

But the relationship between weight and ovarian cancer was strongest among women who had never given birth. For them, cancer risk climbed in tandem with recent body mass index (BMI), a measure of weight in relation to height.

Among childless women, those who were obese in recent years had 2.5 times the risk of ovarian cancer compared with the thinnest women. The same pattern emerged when the researchers looked at the women’s weight gain since age 18.

Dr Julia Greer and her colleagues at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Centre report the findings in the journal Cancer.

A number of studies have looked at the relationship between body weight and ovarian cancer risk, with conflicting results. —MNA/Reuters

India-US nuclear talks end

NEW DELHI, 16 June — India and the US on Wednesday reported “good progress” in reaching a common position on the proposed bilateral nuclear agreement as they wound up first round of official-level talks here.

Keen to conclude the agreement at the earliest, the two sides decided to hold “fairly soon” the second round of discussions on the Peaceful Nuclear Cooperation Agreement, also called 123 Agreement.

The two sides had “very productive discussions”, sources told PTI after three-day talks which saw the two countries holding tough negotiations on various aspects of the agreement, particularly issues like future nuclear testing by India and assurances on atomic fuel supplies by the US.

At the talks, India’s side was led by S Jai Shankar, Joint Secretary (America) in the External Affairs Ministry, while the US delegation was headed by Richard Stratford, Director of the Department of Energy. —MNA/PTI

Venezuela says to buy 24 Russian fighter jets

CARACAS (Venezuela), 15 June—Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez said on Wednesday his government planned to buy 24 Russian-made Sukhoi fighter jets as part of increased military spending to beef up his Armed Forces.

Chavez, a Cuban ally caught in a tense confrontation with Washington, has already purchased Russian attack paratroop beret, Chavez earlier on Wednesday handed new Russian-made rifles to troops and vowed that Washington would not defeat his self-styled socialist revolution for the poor.

Venezuela received shipment of 30,000 Kalashnikov assault rifles in June, weeks after Chavez publicly said his inaction against US foes Cuba and Iran and what it called his inaction against Stalinist FARC guerrillas in neighbouring Colombia.

A*STAR, HP to set up joint lab in Singapore

SINGAPORE, 15 June— The Singapore Government’s Agency for Science, Technology and Research (A*STAR) said Wednesday that it will work with American technology company Hewlett Packard (HP) to set up an HP Shared Services Platform Laboratory (HP SSP Lab) in Singapore.

“This collaboration is aimed at developing management software for next-generation data centres (NGDC) that run continuously, reliably and securely with minimal staffing,” said an A*STAR statement.

The two parties have signed a three-year research agreement on establishing this joint research and development (R&D) lab, which involves a combined investment of over 30 million Singapore dollars (about 19 million US dollars).

More than 30 researchers from A*STAR’s Institute of High Performance Computing (IHPC) and HP’s research arm HP Labs will work at the HP SSP Lab to develop virtualization and automation tools aimed at enabling the NGDC.

A diverse and multidisciplinary community in physical sciences, engineering, informatics, digital media and enterprise is expected to benefit from the collaboration.

A*STAR added that the establishment of the lab is also “a major step in advancing grid utility technologies in Singapore.”

Brazil’s Congress to investigate ambulance fraud case

RIO DE JANEIRO, 15 June— Brazilian Senate President Renan Calheiros announced on Wednesday the creation of the Parliamentary Commission of Inquiry to probe a fraudulent ambulance purchase scheme that involved officials from the mayor, state and federal offices.

The commission will be made up of 17 deputies and 17 senators. Party leaders will not name participants until June 20.

Brazil’s Federal Police discovered the scheme in May during its so-called Operation Bloodsucker. According to the police, congressmen received money to approve overpriced ambulance purchases for public hospitals in 76 towns in Brazil.

They said the scheme began operating in 2001 and handled around 110 million reais (about 47.8 million US dollars).

Some 65 congressmen were involved directly or indirectly in the scheme, but police have only charged 15 representatives so far.

Congressmen will have 30 days to perform the investigation and reach a conclusion.

Calheiros said he hoped the investigation will not be delayed by the World Cup football games, which usually empties Brazil’s Congress.
London, 15 June — Smokers’ heavily wrinkled faces could be an early warning sign of a serious lung disease, researchers said on Wednesday.

They found that smokers with pronounced wrinkles are five times more likely than those without marked facial lines to suffer from chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), which includes bronchitis and emphysema.

COPD, a leading cause of death worldwide, is caused by smoking, which also prematurely ages the skin. So researchers at the Royal Devon & Exeter NHS Foundation in southwest England studied whether there was a link between the two.

“This data suggests that if you are a smoker and you are wrinkled you are more likely to have lung disease,” said Dr Bipen Patel who conducted the study published in the Journal Thorax.

“We found that cigarette smokers who had a large amount of facial wrinkling were five times more likely to have COPD than smokers who were less wrinkled.” COPD begins with a persistent cough and increased mucus. It eventually leads to fatigue, shortness of breath and difficulty breathing as the lungs are destroyed.

Because the disease develops gradually, Patel and his team believe facial wrinkling could be an early sign of the illness before it is diagnosed.

In the acupuncture treatment, how to apply conditions respond best to acupuncture, how to apply it to best relieve symptoms, and also proves physicians could help physicians determine if acupuncture improved symptoms. Twenty-five in the acupuncture group and 25 in the control group.

In the acupuncture group, total fibromyalgia symptoms were significantly improved compared with the control group during the study period, the researchers found. Fatigue and anxiety were the most significantly improved symptoms during the follow-up period.

“We found that acupuncture significantly improved symptoms of fibromyalgia. Symptomatic improvement was not restricted to pain relief and was most significant for fatigue and anxiety,” the researchers concluded.

According to Martin, the study demonstrated that acupuncture is helpful, and also proves physicians can conduct a rigorous, controlled acupuncture study. Future research could help physicians understand which medical conditions respond best to acupuncture, how to apply it to best relieve symptoms, and how long patients can expect to see their symptoms decrease after each treatment.—MNA/Xinhua

LOS ANGELES, 15 June — The traditional Chinese acupuncture could reduce the symptoms of a musculoskeletal disease that disables many people, a study released on Tuesday said.

The disease, called fibromyalgia, is characterized by chronic widespread musculoskeletal pain and symptoms such as fatigue, joint stiffness and sleep disturbance. No cure is known and available treatments are only partially effective.

But according to a research team led by Dr David Martin, an anesthesiologist at the Mayo Clinic, fibromyalgia patients who received acupuncture reported improvement in fatigue and anxiety, among other symptoms.

Acupuncture was also well tolerated with minimal side effects, the researchers said in the June issue of the Mayo Clinic Proceedings. This work lends credence to patients’ belief that nontraditional methods may improve their health, they noted.

The study involved 50 fibromyalgia patients enrolled in a randomized, controlled trial to determine if acupuncture improved their symptoms. Twenty-five in the acupuncture group and 25 in the control group.

SAMSUNG group aims for sales of $31b in China

Beijing, 15 June — Samsung Group, South Korea’s largest industrial conglomerate, announced here Tuesday that it aims to achieve sales of 31 billion US dollars this year in China, a rise of 18.4 per cent over last year.

China Samsung, the China subsidiary which is mainly engaged in electronics production, forecast an increase in investment in China by 8 per cent over last year with the company’s accumu-lated investment reaching 5.1 billion US dollars. China Samsung reported sales of 25.3 billion US dollars last year.

The China market accounted for 22 per cent of Samsung Group’s global sales by the end of 2004, said sources with the company. As China’s share increases, Samsung Group is expanding its China operations. Earlier this year, China Samsung announced it would increase its procurement in China to 18.5 billion US dollars within the year, a 20-per-cent rise over 15.3 billion US dollars last year.

Local procurement could help Samsung reduce costs and win a market advantage, said Keun-hee Park, president of China Samsung.

Late charge earns England 2-0 victory

NUREMBERG, 16 June — England had to endure 83 minutes of frustration against Trinidad & Tobago before Peter Crouch and then Steven Gerrard powered them into the World Cup second round with a hard-earned 2-0 Group B win on Thursday.

Captain David Beckham floated a perfect ball from the right to the far post where 6ft 7in (2.04 metre) Crouch headed the first powerfully into the net.

With a minute remaining Gerrard made sure with a left-foot drive from the edge of the box.

The three points followed a scappy 1-0 win over Paraguay on Saturday and ensures England will finish first or second, depending on their final match with Sweden on Tuesday.

Until their late charge in the last seven minutes, England had looked likely to follow in the path of the Swedes who had proved unable to break down the Caribbean outsiders.

England were boosted by the long-awaited return of Wayne Rooney from a broken foot. His 58th minute arrival, met with loud cheers by England's fans, came hours after two medical experts had pronounced him to fit to play after a faster than expected recovery from a broken foot.

England looked sharper with Rooney and fellow substitute Aaron Lennon on the pitch, but there finishing remained poor and the well organized Soca Warriors defended in numbers attempting to get a draw.

Ecuador cruise into second round

HAMBURG, 16 June — Ecuador strolled past Costa Rica 3-0 and into the second round of the World Cup on Thursday for the first time in their history.

Goals in either half from Carlos Tenorio (8) and Agustin Delgado (54) and then a late strike from Ivan Kaviedes kept the South Americans' 100-per-cent record in Group A intact following a 2-0 win over Poland in their opening match.

Germany are also through, having beaten Poland 1-0 in Dortmund on Wednesday.

Delgado and Tenorio were also goalscorers against the Poles.

The group winners will be decided when Ecuador meet the hosts Germany next Tuesday. The Ticos, meanwhile, head home after the first phase for a second successive finals.

Ecuador coach Luis Fernando Suarez was already looking forward to that match after the convincing victory.

"It will be very difficult against Germany because the players are going to be tired. They played two games. They want to play a very good match against Germany. It will be a historic match," he told reporters.

Despite early pressure from Costa Rica, Ecuador opened the scoring after eight minutes when Tenorio headed home from a nicely floated cross by Luis Valencia.

Germany’s Lahm named Man of the Match

DORTMUND, 16 June — German defender Philipp Lahm has been named Man of the Match after helping the hosts edge Poland 1-0 with a late goal from substitute Oliver Neuville here on Wednesday.

The second World Cup victory from Group A also sent Germany to the brink of qualification to the last 16 with their 4-2 win at the tournament opener against Costa Rica on Friday.

In Wednesday’s dramatic win of Germany, Lahm produced an impressive all-round performance against Poland, and his steady defending and dangerous runs up the wing earned him the Man of the Match honours.

Ljungberg’s goal late sends Paraguay home

BERLIN, 16 June — Freddie Ljungberg’s header in the 89th minute helped Sweden edge Paraguay 1-0 in their World Cup Group B duel here on Thursday, sending the South American home as they lost twice without a goal.

Ljungberg, who plays for English Premier League side Arsenal, popped up at the far post to head home after teammate Marcus Allback put a centre back across goal.

Paraguayan coach Anibal Ruiz described his team’s World Cup exit as “deeply painful”.

Ruiz said, “Sweden had more chances to score, they had more possession. It hurts but we have to congratulate the other team. Let me say that it is really deeply painful.”

In the first half, Sweden's world-class striker Zlatan Ibrahimovic shot tamely at the Paraguayan goalkeeper Aldo Bobadilla and Allback had an effort cleared off the line as it looked like Sweden would fail to get a goal.

Striker Michael Owen, who lasted only 55 minutes against Paraguay and is far from his best after long-term injury, ballooned an early chance when Frank Lampard’s shot was only parried by Shaka Hislop.

Ecuador dreams of second soccer World Cup victory

MEXICO CITY, 16 June — Convinced that a second win in the World Cup will give them their first second round place, Ecuador hope to beat Costa Rica in Hamburg in their second Group A game, Mexican television channel Televisa reported on Wednesday.

But while Ecuador is already dreaming about the second round, Costa Rica has to win or wave goodbye to its World Cup chances, giving Ecuador a narrow advantage.

Manager Luis Saurez is also lucky to have a team without a single injury or yellow card, and whose 2-0 victory over Poland cost them little. While Carlos Tenorio and Ivan Hurtado were both involved in some incidents on the pitch in the first game, they will both be back in action for the second.

Saurez has told his players they have taken a big step in the right direction, but said that the battle is not over yet, a phrase that will be ringing in their ears.

Costa Rica’s manager, Alexandre Guimaraes appeared calm before Press cameras, and told Press: “Our rival will reach the pitch knowing that even a draw is good for them. That is why we have to play clever.”

German pensioner survives lift ordeal with cookies

BERLIN, 16 June — A German pensioner and former elevator repair man had to survive on just a packet of biscuits while he was stuck in a broken hospital lift for three days.

Karlheinz Schmidt, 68, who had turned up for a routine appointment at a Berlin hospital, slipped out of his wheelchair during the 80-hour ordeal in which he repeatedly pushed the lift’s alarm button without anyone hearing his call for help.

“I was lying on the floor and the elevator went up and down for a bit. I pushed the alarm button several times, but nothing happened,” the daily Bild quoted Schmidt as saying. “I thought to myself... ‘Karlheinz, that’s it. You’re on your own now.’”

Schmidt, who appeared on German television looking pale and weak, was finally discovered on Monday after a nurse reported the broken lift. Schmidt’s son had launched a hunt for his father but rescue workers only found concentrations efforts on dredging a nearby canal. [MNA/Reuters]
