NAY PYI TAW, 15 Nov — Mr Gambari, the special adviser to the United Nations Secretary-General, released a statement of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi on her behalf in Singapore on 8 November. We acknowledge that Daw Aung San Suu Kyi is taking interest in the affairs of national races. Starting from 1993 the party attended the National Convention from start to finish. We, upholding the interests of the Union, held discussions on the wishes of the national races. So, we object to the point that Daw Aung San Suu Kyi was responsible for our party.

The National Convention is a forum of the national races because national races constituted the largest number in each of the eight delegate groups in the discussions of the NC. Therefore, the party supports the forthcoming constitution to be drafted by the Commission for Drafting State Constitution according to fundamental principles and detail basic principles laid down by the NC.

Kokang Democracy and Unity Party

Letter No. 01/ka-da-nya-ta/2007

Date: 14th November 2007

The Kokang Democracy and Unity Party was organized with the aim of introducing flourishing democracy to the country and securing rights of Kokang national race legally. Hence, the Kokang Democracy and Unity Party participated in the National Convention and discussed rights of all national races including Kokang national race to be guaranteed constitutionally.

At the National Convention, the delegates to the NC reached a decision unanimously and the fundamental principles and detailed basic principles were laid down. Moreover, the Commission for Drafting the State Constitution has been formed to write the constitution based on the fundamental principles and detailed basic principles. Our party supports the measures that will help step up efforts for implementing the seven-step Road Map.

The Kokang Democracy and Unity Party believe that the National Convention is only venue where issues of national races and people from all walks of life can be discussed. Therefore, we do not accept that a political party representing the national races to hold discussion on and to review the basic principles outside the National Convention. We announce that the Kokang Democracy and Unity Party, representing Kokang national race, will participate in implementing the remaining steps of the seven-step Road Map.

China says sanctions will not help Iran dispute

BEIJING, 14 Nov—Sanctions are not the way to resolve the deepening international confrontation over Iran’s nuclear ambitions, China said on Tuesday, while also urging Teheran to be more compromising.

The comments came as Chinese Foreign Minister Yang Jiechi went to Teheran for talks on the dispute, and while a senior US Treasury official was in Beijing to discuss financial penalties on Iran.

“We urge Iran to respond positively to international calls and adopt a flexible stance. We hope that through dialogue and consultation we can promote progress towards resolution,” ministry spokesman Liu Jianchao told a regular news conference.

“We believe that sanctions, especially unilateral sanctions, are of no help.” Washington and its allies accuse Iran of seeking to develop an atomic weapon capability but Teheran says its nuclear programme is purely for the civilian purpose of generating electricity.

Liu would not discuss details of Yang’s visit and his words echoed calls for compromise that China has regularly offered.

But his comments underscored how, even as Western powers look to tighten economic pressure on Teheran, China hopes for a negotiated settlement of the nuclear dispute.

With a permanent seat on the UN Security Council, China holds the power to pass or veto possible new sanctions on Iran. Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Russia and China are expected to meet on 19 November to assess reports on Iran from European Union foreign policy chief Javier Solana and International Atomic Energy Agency head Mohamed ElBaradei.

The standoff between Iran and the West poses tough choices for Beijing, wary of sanctions and looking to Iran for more oil yet also reluctant to open rifts with the United States.

Bush veto hits heating bill aid programme for poor

WASHINGTON, 14 Nov—Low-income US families planning to rely on a federal programme to help pay expensive heating bills this winter are in jeopardy after President George W Bush on Tuesday vetoed spending legislation that would have provided the financial assistance.

Bush rejected the compromise appropriations bill for the Departments of Labour, Health and Human Services, and Education, which also contained 2.4 billion US dollars in funding for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Programme, commonly known as LIHEAP. Bush’s veto puts “the health and well-being of millions of families at risk this winter”, said Representative Carolyn McCarthy, chairman of a House Education and Labour subcommittee, which held a hearing on Tuesday on the LIHEAP programme.

“With energy costs consistently on the rise, more and more families must make the tough decision whether to heat their homes or put food on the table,” McCarthy said. “We’ll fight for the money.”

With prices forecast to be up for all heating fuels this winter, the poor will need LIHEAP assistance more than ever.

The Energy Department forecasts that households use heating oil will spend an average 26 per cent or 375 US dollars more this winter compared to last winter, with costs for propane expected to be 20 per cent or 273 US dollars higher, natural gas up 11 per cent or 87 US dollars and electricity 3 per cent or 22 US dollars more expensive.

FBI finds Blackwater Iraq shootings unjustified

WASHINGTON, 15 Nov—FBI agents investigating the September 16 episode in which Blackwater security guards shot and killed 17 Iraqi civilians have found that at least 14 of the shootings were unjustified, The New York Times reported on Tuesday.

The FBI investigation into the shootings in Baghdad is still under way, but the findings, which indicate that the company’s employees violated deadly force rules in effect for security contractors in Iraq, are already under review by the Justice Department, the newspaper said.

It cited unnamed civilian and military officials briefed on the case.

Prosecutors have yet to decide whether to seek indictments, and some officials have expressed pessimism that adequate criminal laws exist to enable them to charge any Blackwater employee with criminal wrongdoing, the Times reported.

North Carolina-based Blackwater protects US diplomats and other State Department officials in Iraq.

Spokesmen for the Justice Department and the FBI declined to discuss the matter, the paper said.

The case could be one of the first thorny issues to be decided by Michael Mukasey, who was sworn in as attorney general last week.

He may be faced with a decision to turn down a prosecution on legal grounds at a time when a furor has erupted in Congress about the administration’s failure to hold security contractors accountable for their misdeeds, the Times said.

Investigators have concluded that as many as five of the company’s guards opened fire during the shootings.

They found no evidence to support assertions by Blackwater employees that they were fired upon by Iraqi civilians. That finding sharply contradicts initial assertions by Blackwater officials, who said that company employees fired in self-defence.

Government officials said the shooting occurred when security guards fired in response to gunfire by other members of their unit in the mistaken belief that they were under attack. One official told the Times: “I wouldn’t call it a massacre, but to say it was not warranted is an understatement.”

Philippine House blast toll climbs to four

MANILA, 15 Nov — The death toll in the blast that ripped through the Philippine Congress complex on Tuesday evening has risen to four, local media reported on Wednesday.

Junaskiri Hayudini, an aide of Baslian Representative Wahab Akbar, died Wednesday afternoon at a medical centre near the blast spot, Philippine television network ABS-CBN News reported.

Akbar, a lawmaker from the southern Philippines, himself died late Tuesday night while being treated in another medical centre.

Besides, two other persons, a driver, Marcial Talvo, and a Congress staff member, Maan Gale Abustanillo, died because of injuries sustained in the blast.

The explosion took place at about 8:15 pm Tuesday local time (1215 GMT) while congressmen were going out of the House after the session adjournment, at the southern wing of Batasan Pambansa, the Congress complex, in Quezon City, part of Metro Manila.

The police had said the explosion was caused by a cellphone-detonated bomb attached into a motorcycle.

“We already found parts of the bomb and it was detonated by a cellphone,” said Director Geary Barlas, chief of the National Capital Region Police office.

Metro Manila, the Philippine capital region, has been placed on full alert following the blast.

NAIROBI, 14 Nov — Researchers have discovered a 10-million-year-old jaw bone in Kenya they believe belonged to a new species of great ape that could be the last common ancestor of gorillas, chimpanzees and humans.

The Kenyan and Japanese team found the fragment in 2005 along with 11 teeth in volcanic mud flow deposits in Kenya’s northern Nakali region.

The species — somewhere between the size of a female gorilla and a female orangutan — may prove to be the “missing link” in the evolution theory, Kenyan scientists said.

“Based on this particular discovery, we can comfortably say we are approaching the point at which we can pin down the so-called missing link,” said Frederick Manthi, Senior Research Scientist at the National Museums of Kenya.

“We have to find more fossils from a cross-section of sites to sustain that particular theory,” he told a news conference.

Christened Nakalipithecus nakayamai, the new species fed on nuts, seeds and fruit. At 40 cm in length, the teeth were coved in thick enamel and the caps were low and voluminous, suggesting that the diet of this ape consisted of a considerable amount of hard objects, like nuts or seeds, and fruit,” Yutaka Kunimatsu at Kyoto University’s Primat Research Institute said in a telephone interview.

“It could be positioned before the split between gorillas, chimps and humans,” he added.

Kunimatsu said it was hard to determine what Nakalipithecus nakayamai looked like. — MNA/Reuters

London buys hydrogen-fuelled red buses

LONDON, 15 Nov — London’s mayor said on Tuesday he had signed a 10-million-pound (20.7-million-US-dollar) deal for ten hydrogen-powered buses to help reduce pollution and CO2 emissions in the UK capital.

Five of the traditional red buses, to be built by US manufacturer ISE Corp, will be powered by hydrogen fuel cells and five will burn hydrogen in conventional internal combustion engines.

“London is now the first city in Europe to commit to a hydrogen bus fleet of this size, which will match traditional diesel buses in terms of performance,” London Mayor Ken Livingstone said.

“This represents a huge step forward from the previous hydrogen trials in the capital and is an important step towards my target of having 5 per cent of all public sector fleet vehicles powered by hydrogen by 2015,” he added. — MNA/Reuters

Saudi Oil Minister dismisses OPEC supply increase

LONDON, 14 NOV— OPEC members will not announce an increase in oil production at this weekend’s Riyadh summit, Saudi Arabia’s Oil Minister said on Tuesday, suggesting oil prices are likely to stay around 100 US dollars a barrel.

In an interview with the Financial Times, Ali Naimi said “there will be absolutely no discussion” of a production increase by heads of state or their oil ministers on short-term supply when the Riyadh meeting convenes.

“This is a summit that is dealing with strategic issues and longer views. You have seen the themes. And you will get a declaration after it. OPEC ministers are not going to meet to discuss supply and prices and the heads of state definitely are not going to discuss it,” Naimi said.

“There is going to be discussion among the heads of state on growth, environment, reliability of supply, investment in future supplies to guarantee the integrity of the system. They are not taking about today, they are talking about the longer term view.”

Naimi said that OPEC had nothing to do with where the oil price was, but said that it was watching the market “very carefully” and did not rule out the possibility of an increase in production after a meeting next month. “I cannot answer why the prices are so high. Prices are determined by a market that is influenced by many factors.”

KATHMANDU, 14 NOV— The International Monetary Fund (IMF) Monday completed the fifth and final review on Nepal’s economic performance under the Poverty Reduction and Growth Facility (PRGF) arrangement, reported the National News Agency (RSS).

The three-year PRGF arrangement with Nepal was approved, down 14 per cent over the same period last year, by heads of state or their oil ministers on short-term supply when the Riyadh meeting convenes.

Diabetes becoming public health problem in Nepal

Kathmandu, 14 Nov — Diabetes is becoming a significant public health problem, particularly in urban areas of Nepal, according to Nepal Diabetes Association (NDA) on Wednesday.

As the world observes World Day against diabetes on Wednesday, the NDA said in a report that its studies carried out in urban areas throughout Nepal have shown that diabetes prevalence stood at around 15 percent among people aged 20 years and above and 19 percent among people aged 40 years and above.

The NDA said that diabetes prevalence stood at 2 percent in rural areas among people aged 20 years and above.

The association said 246 million people are living with diabetes globally.

It has asked the health authorities to formulate appropriate policies to ensure prevention of the disease. People living sedentary lifestyles are said to be particularly vulnerable to diabetes.

Diabetes can lead to serious ailments in eyes, kidney and heart if not taken care of properly, according to doctors.

Study backs ultrasound to judge ovarian malignancy

Washington, 15 Nov — Using ultrasound images may be a better way than blood tests to determine whether a woman’s ovarian tumor is benign or malignant, European researchers said on Tuesday.

Higher levels of a so-called tumor marker protein called CA-125 in the blood is considered the standard way to judge if an ovarian tumor is benign or malignant, but this method sometimes can yield wrong answers, the researchers said.

Researchers led by Dr Dirk Timmerman of Katholieke Universiteit Leuven in Belgium tested whether ultrasound assessment of the tumor by an experienced examiner was a better method.

Ultrasound employs high-frequency sound waves to create images of things inside the body.

In the study, 1,066 women with ovarian tumors were given an ultrasound examination.

Of these women, 809 provided blood samples before surgery to remove the ovarian tumors to be analyzed for CA-125, which is overproduced by ovarian tumor cells.

The ultrasound examiners accurately gauged 93 per cent of the tumors as either benign or malignant using a method called pattern recognition, according to the study.

The blood tests measuring CA-125 levels, in comparison, accurately determined the nature of 83 per cent of the tumors, the researchers said.

18 mln males at marriage age more than females in China

Zhengzhou, 15 Nov — The number of males in China at marriage age is 18 million more than that of females due to a long period of high sex birth ratio since the 1980s, according to the country’s family planning authorities.

Rural families still have a preference for boys as agricultural production currently relies mainly on laborers, according to Zhang.

China will continue to crack down on illegal prenatal sex selection and will try to help people discard traditional ideas of a preference for boys, the official said.

Pakistan helicopters gunships kill four militants

Islamabad, 14 Nov — Pakistani helicopter gunships killed four militants and destroyed bunkers and ammunition dumps at a village in a northwestern region where a pro-Taliban rebel has led an insurrection, the military said on Tuesday.

More than 200 people have been killed in clashes between fighters commanded by Maulana Fazlullah and security forces over the past few weeks in Swat, a picturesque, mountainous district of North West Frontier Province (NWFP) that was formerly a tourist haven.

The focus came off the violence in Swat after President Pervez Musharraf declared emergency rule and suspended the Constitution on 3 November, but military spokesman Major-General Waheed Arshad said security forces were keeping up pressure on Fazlullah’s followers. “We have used helicopter gunships in the last few days to target militant positions and their bunkers,” he said.

Tuesday’s raid targeted militant positions at the village of Sambit, according to another military official.

Five more militants were wounded in another clash in the area, while paramilitary troops captured five fighters, along with arms and explosives, at a third village. Lieutenant-General Mohammad Masood Aslam, the top military commander in NWFP, said there were between 500 and 800 foreign militants based in Swat, but did not say whether there was any well known figure among them.
From the first step to the set goal

Bagyi Phyo, a retired teacher, is strongly equipped with nationalistic fervour and patriotic spirit. Silence ruled in the classroom when he taught history. He also equipped his pupils with nationalistic spirit and patriotic spirit and nurtured them in order to become reliable ones. In that way, he enthusiastically helped the nation produce human resources.

He is convinced that “The constitution is of vital importance for a nation. Only with an appropriate constitution will it be possible for the nation to enjoy political, economic and social progress”. He believed that a human body can stand firmly only with the backbone. In like manner, a nation can enjoy development and economic growth only with a suitable constitution.

The nation is now in pursuit of the State’s seven-step Road Map, which was brought into force in 2003. Now, the National Convention, the first and the most important step, has been convened, and plans are under way to draft a constitution. The Tatmadaw government is striving steadfastly for emergence of a new enduring State constitution as a national duty. It reconvened and completed the National Convention, that had been adjourned temporarily since 1996, between 2004 and 2007. Bagyi Phyo believed that the National Convention will go down in history owing to the National Convention delegates’ qualifications such as taking lessons from past historic events and prevailing situations, and capability of visualizing the future of the nation, applying experiences, knowledge and views in combination, being loyal to the nation and the people, imbuing themselves strongly with Union Spirit and foresight.

Therefore, Bagyi Phyo had taken a great interest in the Union Solidarity and Development Association that is made up of younger generation that will help create a prosperous future of the motherland. He had a conversation with his niece Htwe Nge who completed the Advanced Management (Special) Course for USDA executives.

“I am interested in the USDA that has been formed with younger generation who are patriotic with correct conviction and concept to restore stability of the State and carry out nation-building tasks in cooperation with the people. Would you explain facts about the Association to me?”

“Yes, Grandpa. The Association is formed with youths who are patriotic with correct conviction and concept to restore stability of the State and carry out nation-building tasks in cooperation with the people. It came into existence with five objectives, five principles, four oaths, eleven points of code of conduct, and fourteen duties and responsibilities based on Our Three Main National Causes the entire people practise as the national policy.

Over 14 years after the Association was established, members have been taking part in social welfare services together with the people in respective regions in accordance with the future plans the Association lays down annually.

In fact, they are also public members born of the people in respective regions. So, they are participating in the regional development tasks with genuine goodwill. They have a social welfare spirit and contribute towards social occasions and tasks for community peace, and improvement in the social, economic and education sectors of local people. They also take part in precautionary measures against such natural disasters as floods and strong winds.

In the process, they cooperate with local authorities, Tatmadaw members, service personnel and other social organizations. Local people of respective regions have recognized their contribution towards community welfare services. So, the membership of the Association has reached more than 24.5 million.

“The Association opens various courses for the growing number of the members to enable them to serve the interests of their respective regions better. In this regard, the member trainees should combine the knowledge they have gained from the courses and their experiences.

“No, the government is building a new nation systematically to fulfill the wishes of the people. So, it is needed to take into consideration the past experiences, present situations and possible future of the nation. And it is also needed to transform the nation from the old system to the new one in a smooth way. I understand that all members have to serve as a reserve force to achieve the goal. The Head of State on one occasion gave guidance that the nation had to deal with a variety of destructive acts and blockages to carry out national development tasks. USDA members were to have correct concepts to overcome such hindrances. The four points of People’s Desire have been laid down to crush the destructive elements who are disrupting the national development tasks. It was required to inculcate People’s Desire not only into the Association but also into the people, he said.

“So, we, USDA members, are to work hard together with the people to perform the duties ranging from successful completion of the National Convention, the first step of the Road Map, to the drafting of the constitution. Now, some groups outside the nation are criticising the nation with negative views. Moreover, they are airing distorted news stories and exaggerated news stories to instigate protests in the nation. We, members, understand well that their activities are not designed to serve the interests of the nation and the people.”

After the long clarification of Htwe Nge, Bagyi Phyo nodded his head smiling.

He said, “Then, I am assured of the good future of the nation and the activities of younger generation”. At the end of Bagyi Phyo’s remark, Htwe Nge smiled pleased with her heart filled with satisfaction, visualizing the accomplishments ranging from the first step of the State’s seven-step Road Map to the set goal.

EU lawmakers to reopen inquiry into CIA prisons

Strasbourg (France), 15 Nov — European Union lawmakers will reopen an inquiry into secret CIA flights and prisons in Europe after lacklustre cooperation from EU capitals and new evidence of such activities in Ukraine, deputies said. EU lawmakers closed a first probe in February by accusing European governments and secret services of accepting and concealing secret US flights carrying terrorism suspects across Europe.

Critics said they had produced no conclusive proof. European Parliament members Giulietto Chiesa and Claudio Fava said on Wednesday the assembly’s civil liberties committee would try to get further answers from EU governments accused of allowing the US Central Intelligence Agency to interrogate and transport prisoners on European soil.

They cited a documentary by a Russian television journalist, Arkadij Mamontov, as showing new evidence of a secret prison and flights in Ukraine, a neighbour of the 27-nation EU.

Chiesa said he did not have independent evidence to back up the documentary by the pro-Kremlin public broadcasting station RTR, which he said showed footage of a secret prison and interviews with people who helped build it.

Baghdad faces struggle to rebuild

Baghdad, 15 Nov — Baghdad, the epicentre of Iraq’s sectarian bloodshed, is starting to rebuild its shattered infrastructure, but political feuds and the threat of renewed attacks could reverse progress, officials said on Wednesday.

“Baghdad, God willing, will emerge after suffering from despotism, explosions and car bombs,” Deputy Prime Minister Barham Salih told a conference on rebuilding the Baghdad region.

While the state of basic services like water, electricity, and sewerage has improved across Iraq since the US-led invasion to topple Saddam Hussein in 2003, conditions in the capital Baghdad have been particularly grim.

This August, residents of the Baghdad region had an average of 9.2 hours of electricity a day, the second lowest in Iraq. Insufficient power and sabotage also contributed to a major water shortage in recent months.

Many people do not think AIDS is fatal

New York, 15 Nov — In a nine-country survey released today, more than 40 percent of respondents did not understand that AIDS is always a fatal disease.

The survey from the MAC AIDS Fund, a philanthropy set up by Estee Lauder-owned MAC cosmetics, involved 4,310 interviews conducted in the US, UK, Russia, France, China, India, Mexico, Brazil and South Africa. The release of the findings coincides with a Fund board meeting and comes in advance of World AIDS Day on December 1.

“The strength of the survey lies in its exclusive focus on issues related to AIDS, its span of nine countries and the fact that it poses frank, specific questions at a time when we need frank, specific answers to increase the effectiveness of our global response to the epidemic,” Nancy Mahon, Executive Director of the MAC AIDS Fund, told Reuters Health.

Explosive device kills guard in Tajik capital

Dushanbe, 15 Nov — An explosion killed a security guard in the Tajik capital Dushanbe on Wednesday outside a building where the country’s Prime Minister Akilov had been due to make a speech, officials and witnesses said.

Police were investigating a possible terrorist link, officials said, Prime Minister Akilov was at the centre of a political crisis as he has come under attack from opposition-minded, Moscow-backed secular and Islamic opposition.

Accused of corruption, Akilov had been due to attend a conference organized by the European Commission in a building 300 metres (yards) from the presidential palace.

Dushanbe, a city of about one million people in the mostly Muslim former Soviet country, was at the centre of a bloody civil war in the 1990s which pitted Moscow-backed secural forces against an alliance of Islamists and opposition-minded liberals.

Dushanbe Mayor Karbonali Mukhabbatov said the KNB security service, the successor agency to the Soviet-era KGB, believed the blast could be a terrorist act.

Britain set to ease airport bag restrictions

London, 15 Nov — Baggage restrictions at British airports will be relaxed in the New Year, Transport Secretary Ruth Kelly is expected to announce on Wednesday.

According to the Financial Times, Kelly will announce at a speech to the Airport Operators Association that travellers will be allowed to take two items of baggage on board from next year.

Since August 2006, passengers boarding British airports have been limited to one item of hand luggage each.

The measures were introduced after the discovery of a suspected plot using liquid explosives to launch an attack.

The EU-wide restrictions on carrying liquids on board are, however, expected to remain in place.

The Department of Transport said it could not comment on the reports before Kelly’s speech.

In the immediate weeks after detectives said they had foiled the plot, all hand luggage had to be checked into the hold, with only passports and travel documents allowed on board. — MNA/Reuters

Family feared dead in Northern Ireland fire

GENEVA, 15 Nov — United Nations arms talks ended on Tuesday without firm pledges to seek a ban on cluster bombs, the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) said.

The annual meeting of states party to the Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons resulted in only a vague promise to start negotiating a treaty next year on the humanitarian impact of cluster munitions, the Swiss-based agency said.

Cluster bombs, munitions that disperse over a wide area, kill or maim thousands of civilians every year. Many bomblets fail to detonate and remain dangerous for decades after they were dropped.

“It is regrettable that the mandate adopted today does not reflect a collective commitment either to the adoption of a legally binding instrument or to the prohibition of those cluster munitions which have caused such a serious humanitarian problem,” said Peter Herby, head of the ICRC’s arms unit.

Without a clear timeframe to complete the negotiations, Herby said the talks risked becoming drawn out, without an effective solution.

Nearly 70 countries have voiced support for a ban on cluster bombs, but the United States, Russia and China have not. US officials have backed the idea of a treaty to reduce civilian casualties from the weapon without a full ban on its use.

The Cluster Munition Coalition, an international group campaigning against the weapons, said the focus of efforts to ban cluster bombs would now move to Vienna from December 4-7, when more than 80 countries would meet to discuss the problem.

The Vienna meeting is part of a series launched in Oslo in February earlier this year where countries are working on a treaty on cluster munitions.

“The decision here (in Geneva) is a road to nowhere on cluster munitions that will never lead to a ban. Fortunately the real work to develop a ban treaty is well advanced and will stride forward in Vienna next month,” said Thomas Nash, coordinator of the coalition.

Nepal’s intra-SAARC trade grows by 8.2%

KATHMANDU, 15 Nov — Nepal’s trade with the seven other South Asian countries grew by 8.2 per cent to 161.22 billion Nepali rupees (some 2.5 billion US dollars) in 2006/07, a government report stated on Wednesday.

The annual report of the Trade and Export Promotion Centre (TEPC), however, noted that the country’s trade growth in the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) region for the year was much slower compared to the previous fiscal year.

In 2005/06, the trade volume had swelled by about 16 per cent.

This situation emerged mainly because of internal reasons, such as deterioration in the security situation, erosion of industrial environment, labour strife and the tariff unrest,” executive director of TEPC Dinesh Chandra Gupta said.

He further said that the failure of the government to update its industrial and commerce policies and poor state of economic diplomacy also caused trade to slow down during the year.

According to the report, Nepal’s total exports to the SAARC region grew by about 36.7 per cent and reached 42.85 billion rupees (some 680 million dollars) during the year, whereas imports from SAARC grew by 10 per cent to 118.37 billion rupees (some 1.8 billion dollars).

Study shows Britons as hardest travellers

LONDON, 15 Nov — A report unveiled on Tuesday shows that British travellers are the hardest travellers in the world.

“Britons are the hardest and most terrorist resistant travellers in the world,” said Dr Auliana Poon, managing director of Tourism Intelligence International during the ongoing World Travel Market in east London.

This work on a treaty in what is known as the Oslo process is similar to the creation of a treaty banning landmines in 1997 that followed the failure to agree a total ban on landmines under the Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons.

“This situation is an annual trade event drawing some 55,000 professionals from over 200 countries and regions.

“We did an investigation into how the Japanese, the Germans and the Americans and British responded to terrorism. We did a study on the impact on tourism in the build up to the outbreak of the Gulf War,” she said. — MNA/Xinhua

Zambian tour operators attend World Travel Market

LUSAKA, 14 Nov—Twenty-six Zambian tour operators led by Minister of Tourism, Environment and Natural Resources Michael Ngau and his team, attended this year’s World Travel Market (WTM) in London this week.

Zambia National Tourist Board (ZNTB) public relations officer Doris Kofe said in an interview in Lusaka Monday that this year’s WTM would tackle issues on responsible tourism and climate change and how climate change would affect tourism.

She said the WTM opened on Monday and would run up to 15 November.

She said the event organizers, Reed Exhibitions, expected more than 200 tourism ministers and 30,000 visitors at this year’s event which was one of the world’s biggest annual tourism exhibitions.

She said the exhibition provides a platform for countries to market their tourism to both the travel trade and the consumers during the four-day event whose first two days were strictly reserved for business-to-business meetings.

Kofe said the Zambian stand of 105 square metres, would be occupied by operators representing three airlines, 17 accommodation operators and six tour operators.

During the event, Zambia will host a networking cocktail at the stand to be attended by the international travel trade representatives and the media.

sign on J-V industrial zone

ANKARA, 14 Nov—Turkish, Israeli and Palestinian Presidents Abdullah Gul, Shimon Peres and Mahmoud Abbas signed here on Tuesday an agreement on building a joint industrial zone in the West Bank, the semi-official Anatolia news agency reported.

The agreement was signed in a tripartite meeting at the Cankaya Presidential Palace within the scope of the Ankara Forum which kicked off early in the day.

Under the agreement, a joint industrial zone will be established in the West Bank, to house more than 200 factories and provide working opportunities for Palestinians.

Implementation of Turkey’s “Organized Industrial Zone” model in the countries of the Middle East was expected to contribute remarkably to the development of private sector in these countries, Anatolia said.

It will also help create employment opportunities for the Palestinians, attract investments to the region and develop the region’s economy in the medium and long-term, the report added.

The three-way meeting came weeks before Israeli and Palestinians are set to sit down at a US-sponsored peace conference in Annapolis, Maryland later this month.

Turkey invites exiled “Spiderman” to climb mountain

BEIJING, 15 Nov—China has invited French “Spiderman” Alain Robert back to scale a mountain, despite banning him from the country for five years after he climbed the 1,518-metre (4,980-feet) Tianmen mountain in Zhangjiajie, a scenic region in the southern province of Hunan, the Shanghai Daily quoted him as saying.

“It took two months to convince seven different departments of the Chinese Government of the advantages of letting him back in to climb (the mountain),” the paper said.

The local government hoped the climb, to be made without any mountain-climbing gear and broadcast across China, would boost the profile of the region and bring in tourists, the paper said.

Central Vietnam struggles with new flood disaster

HANOI, 14 Nov—Tens of thousands of homes were submerged in central Vietnam, the fifth major floods since August in which hundreds of people have died, roads and railways inundated, crops damaged and water-borne diseases spread. Relief workers delivered emergency supplies of household kits, clean water containers and mosquito nets in the coastal cities of Hue and Danang and the provinces of Quang Tri, Quang Ngai and Binh Dinh.

“The water is at very dangerous levels and we are not very clear on what all the needs are,” said spokesman Tao Van Dung of the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies in Hanoi. “Some people need help for disease prevention.”

Parts of Vietnam have suffered an outbreak of acute diarrhoea, including cholera, in the past three weeks. Dengue and bird flu are also present in the Southeast Asian country.

Rains have disrupted the coffee harvest in the Central Highlands in the past two weeks. A government report said 61,500 houses were submerged in Quang Ngai Province and in Danang. Meteorologists estimated water levels were higher than in October in several northern and central provinces, which were some of the highest in two decades.

This week, the main north-south railway and roads were flooded, confining about 2,500 foreigners among 3,000 tourists to hotels in Hue and other popular destinations. Nearly 150 old houses have been submerged in Hoi An, a World Heritage site.

Big earthquake kills two in Chile, hits mining

SANTIAGO, 15 Nov — A powerful earthquake hit mineral-rich northern Chile on Wednesday, killing at least two people, injuring more than 100 and halting output at some of the world’s largest copper mines.

Two people were confirmed dead and 117 were injured in the magnitude 7.7 quake, which raised massive dust clouds in Chile’s mountainous north and shook buildings in isolated cities up and down the Pacific coast.

Dozens of road workers were reported trapped in and around a coastal highway tunnel that collapsed in the hardest-hit area and government spokesman Ricardo Lagos Weber said rescuers would try to reach them early on Thursday.

“They will be evacuated by the Navy via the ocean tomorrow ... As far as we know there are no injured or dead (among them),” Lagos said.

Hundreds of miles away in the Chilean capital Santiago, buildings swayed and unnerved even the earthquake-hardened.

The worst damage occurred in Tocopilla, 75 miles (120 kilometres) north of coastal mining city Antofagasta, where people were caught under rubble from crumbling rooftops and balconies. Tocopilla’s mayor, Luis Moyano, said at least 1,200 houses had been flattened, leaving 4,000 residents homeless.

“The people of Tocopilla are going to have to sleep in the streets,” he told local radio. Among the injured in Tocopilla were 19 men, 89 women and seven children.

Aid group World Vision International, which sits on a disaster relief committee for the Chilean Government, said it had information suggesting the situation in Tocopilla could be far worse than reported so far.

Authorities said an 88-year-old woman was killed when a wall fell on top of her and a 54-year-old woman also died, although the cause of her death was not clear.

First “Robot” electric guitar tunes itself

WASHINGTON, 15 Nov—Passengers were evacuated from a plane after a smoking suitcase was found Tuesday in the cargo area at the Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport in Ariz., Arizona, but did not contain explosives, said a TV report.

Citing airport spokeswoman Julie Rodriguez, the CNN report said that a gate area for boarding was also evacuated after a suitcase that was ready to board on a US Airways plane began to smoke in the morning.

A baggage handler noticed the suitcase was hot and set it aside without loading it on the plane, she said.

Roadside bomb detonates near Baghdad’s Green Zone, kills one

BAGHDAD, 15 Nov — A roadside bomb detonated near a US patrol outside the heavily fortified Green Zone in central Baghdad on Wednesday, killing a civilian and wounding two other, an Interior Ministry source said.

The attack took place in the morning near a police station close to a main entrance to the Green Zone that houses the Iraqi Government offices and foreign embassies, including the US and British, the source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

The powerful blast killed a passerby and wounded two others, said the source, adding that a US Humvee was also damaged.

It was unknown whether the US soldiers sustained any casualty as the troops sealed off the area, preventing the Iraqi

Spain out to set record straight in final two qualifiers

MADRID, 15 Nov—Spain are out to prove last year’s Euro 2008 qualifier defeats to Sweden and Northern Ireland were simply a blip when the sides meet again for their final Group F encounters, striker David Villa said on Wednesday.

Spain surprisingly lost 3-2 in Belfast in September 2006 and then 2-0 in Solna the following month, leaving coach Luis Aragones under intense pressure to step down. The setbacks came soon after a disappointing World Cup campaign in Germany.

It was the first time in 15 years Spain had lost two qualifiers in a row. “The reason everything seemed so bad after the World Cup was because of those two games. We should take these games as a chance for some healthy revenge,” Valencia striker Villa told reporters.— MNA/Reuters

Russia’s Davydenko wins appeal against ATP fine

SHANGHAI, 14 Nov— Russian Nikolay Davydenko has won his appeal against a 2,000-US-dollar fine for not trying hard enough during a match, the men’s ATP Tour said on Tuesday.

The men’s ATP have agreed to overturn the fine which was imposed on the world number four following a loss to Croatia’s Marin Clic in St. Petersburg last month.

“Following an extensive review of the match... that included a full video analysis, it was decided that Davydenko’s appeal should be upheld and the 2,000-US-dollar fine rescinded,” the ATP’s rule chief Gayle Bradshaw said in a statement.

Davydenko, taking part in the season-ending Tennis Masters Cup in Shanghai this week, was already at the centre of a betting investigation.

Gerrard, Owen back McClaren even if England miss out

LONDON, 15 Nov— England’s stand-in skipper Steven Gerrard said on Wednesday that head coach Steve McClaren should remain in his job even if England fail to qualify for next year’s European Championship.

Gerrard, who will captain the team in the absence of the injured John Terry in Friday’s friendly international against Austria in Vienna and probably in England’s last Euro 2008 qualifier against Croatia next week, told reporters he believed McClaren was still the right man for the job.

“Whether we qualify or not he is still the best man to lead England,” said Gerrard.

“He is a top coach with the right credentials and I don’t see the point of changing your manager every six months or every year. We have a good young squad and the players have to take responsibility if we do not qualify for the finals.

“We had five 3-0 wins in a row in the qualifiers, and the team has been moving in the right direction apart from a few mad minutes against Russia when we lost.” As a result of that 2-1 defeat in Moscow last month, England’s World Cup hopes are now out of their own hands.

Group E leaders Croatia will seal their almost-certain place in the finals if they take at least a point from their match against Macedonia on Saturday while Russia will effectively seal their place if they beat Israel in Tel Aviv on Saturday effectively seal their place if they beat Israel in Tel Aviv on Saturday day because a win over tiny Andorra in their final match is virtually certain.— MNA/Reuters

Federer honoured as top player of 2007

SHANGHAI, 14 Nov— Roger Federer was honoured in Shanghai on Tuesday after finishing the year as the world’s top player for the fourth season in a row.

The Swiss was assured of finishing 2007 ahead of Spanish rival Rafael Nadal in the ATP Tour’s Champions Race after winning his hometown title in Basel at the end of last month.

Federer, still licking his wounds after Monday’s shock defeat by Chile’s Fernando Gonzalez in his opening round-robin match at the year-ending Tennis Masters Cup, paid tribute to Nadal.

“This year was very special because I was behind Nadal and won it back,” said Federer in an on-court ceremony before the Spaniard’s match against compatriot David Ferrer.

“It’s the fourth consecutive year for me to finish as number one. It’s an amazing run I’m on and I’ll try my best to maintain it in 2008.”— MNA/Reuters

Cagliari sack coach Giampaolo

MILAN, 14 Nov— Serie A strugglers Cagliari have sacked coach Marco Giampaolo, the club said on their website (www.cagliaricalcio.net) on Tuesday.

The Sardinians are hovering above the relegation zone but are on the same points as bottom club Empoli after winning just two games this term. Former coach Nedo Sonetti has been linked in Italian media with a return to the hotseat.

Cagliari’s match at AS Roma on Sunday was postponed after a policeman shot dead a Lazio fan and riots followed. Siena also parted company with coach Andrea Mancini and brought in former manager Mario Beretta on Monday while fellow relegation candidates Livorno and Reggina have already changed coaches this season.— MNA/Reuters

Bomb parts get by US airport security in tests

WASHINGTON, 15 Nov — Undercover Government investigators were able to pass through US airport security carrying liquids and other materials that could be used to make explosive devices, exposing vulnerabilities in the screening process, said a congressional report released on Wednesday.

The tests "clearly demonstrated that a terrorist could use these devices to cause severe damage to an airplane and threaten the safety of passengers," said the report by the General Accountability Office, the investigative arm of Congress.

Investigators found instructions on the Internet for creating the devices and purchased the components over the Internet and from a local store for less than 150 US dollars. In most cases, the report said, "incompatible" with life in the Armed Forces and pointed out that while around 7 per cent of civilians in the workforce test positive for drugs, the figure is only 0.7 percent in the military.

Transportation Security Administration officers followed proper procedure but the investigators managed to get the concealed material onto airplanes by taking advantage of weaknesses in the system, the report said.

The tests were requested by the House of Representatives' government oversight committee to determine whether there were security gaps in the passenger screening process after more stringent policies were implemented in August 2006.

"The TSA needs to explain how after spending billions of dollars over six years, it is still failing to stop dangerous materials from making it onto airplanes. This is unacceptable and has to be fixed," said chairman Representative Henry Waxman, a California Democrat.

British troops face dismissal over drugs

LONDON, 15 Nov — Seventeen British soldiers face dismissal from the Armed Forces after testing positive for drugs following a holiday in Mexico, the Ministry of Defence said on Tuesday.

The soldiers, from the 5th Battalion, Royal Regiment of Scotland, tested positive after returning to barracks following exercises in Belize and a "rest and recuperation" break at a Mexican seaside resort.

"All they’ve done so far is test positive for a Class A drug," a ministry spokesman said. They have not yet been discharged but face that threat.

"Only in exceptional circumstances are soldiers retained after testing positive for drugs," he said.

The BBC reported that the soldiers had taken heroin and cocaine but that could not be independently confirmed.

The MoD spokesman said drug-taking was "incompatible" with life in the Armed Forces and fixed, "unacceptable and has to be explained," said chairman Representative Henry Waxman, a California Democrat.

Shan State (North) Special Region-5 KDA made peace with the government on 15 January 1991. It attended the National Convention participating in the other invited persons delegate group and held discussions to lay down fundamental principles and detailed basic principles necessary for writing an enduring constitution. Fundamental principles and detailed basic principles were laid down in order that not only the national races who have already got the respective states but also the national races who meet the necessary requirements and the ethnic groups who have the required number of population could represent the state/division hluttaws and self-administered area leading bodies.

As our organization had already discussed the issue of our own national races, we cannot accept an individual or a party to represent us. With our own commitment, we support the measures being taken for emergence of a constitution based on the fundamental principles and detailed basic principles laid down by the National Convention and we will steadfastly continue participating in the drive.
