Make preparations for the future

What the neo-colonialists want regarding Myanmar affairs is not to help practise democracy and enjoy human rights fully. Their real intention is to make sure that national consolidation will not be built, weaken the nation, and install a puppet dictatorial government in the nation. They are desirous of a puppet military leader or a dictator in power in the nation of their liking. Apparently all the countries that deal with them feel uneasy. Our people should realize this.

Control AIDS and provide assistance for victims

Today, AIDS is spreading as an epidemic throughout the world. So far, more than 33 million people have been infected with AIDS. This year, about two million people have died.

Most people aged between 15 and 49 years in the world have died of AIDS. About 46 per cent of HIV positive persons are women. So, all world nations are paying special attention to combat the scourge.

In Myanmar, the government is taking systematic measures to control TB and malaria in addition to AIDS as a national duty, realizing that those diseases can pose a grave danger to the public health. The Central Committee for Control and Elimination of AIDS was formed in 1989. In like manner, the work committees at state, division, district and township levels have been formed for successful realization of the task.

As part of the project for control of AIDS and venereal diseases, efforts are being made on a large scale for giving educative talks on AIDS and effective treatment of contagious diseases. Work is well under way for ensuring safe blood transfusion in 106 towns and for preventing the spread of HIV from mother to foetus at 37 hospitals.

Myanmar is participating actively in the strategies on preventive measures in cooperation with UN agencies and international non-governmental organizations. AIDS has a negative impact not only on the public health but also on the social, economic and development works. So, the entire people have to care the victims while taking part in the AIDS control movements.

UN cuts tours as guides stay away in protest

UNITED NATIONS, 7 Dec — Tours of the United Nations headquarters in New York were drastically cut back on Thursday after tour guides stayed away from work as part of a dispute with management, the world body said.

UN spokeswoman Marie Okabe said only people who had made advance reservations were able to tour the building after 22 guides called in sick. She said this was apparently related to issues they had raised with management in recent weeks.

UN Staff Council officers said the guides were protesting over their medical and other benefits. The United Nations normally offers tours of the UN building, including the Security Council chamber and General Assembly hall, in English and up to 12 other languages. The cost is 13 US dollars for adults and seven US dollars for children. A notice at the tour desk said no tours were available, adding: “Sorry for the inconvenience”.

Several would-be tourists lusted in the UN lobby. “At least I had a look at the buildings,” said one, Frenchman Michel Muller, as he studied a guide-book of New York. MNA/Reuters

Moscow criticizes US think-tank over debate

MOSCOW, 8 Dec — Russia accused a US think-tank on Friday of spreading anti-Russian propaganda by hosting a debate on violence in the turbulent Ingushetia region neighbouring Chechnya. The Foreign Ministry said Russia was surprised by the US think-tank’s weekly newsletter, which is largely critical of Russian policy.

The ministry said the sole aim of last week’s debate had been to misinform the US public about Russian policy in the north Caucasus.

“Organizers again and again resorted to deliberately spreading slander about the situation in Chechnya and other republics of the Russian north Caucasus using the services of supporters of terrorists and pseudo-experts,” the ministry said.

“Speakers were given carte blanche to spread extremist propaganda, incite ethnic and inter-religious discord.”

The think-tank said Russia was trying to intimidate it. “It shows that they feel threatened by us,” Foundation president Glen Howard said in a telephone interview. “They’re intimidated by the power of the free word and this goes against the state manipulation of the media in Russia.”

British government plans big new prisons

LONDON, 7 Dec — Justice Secretary Jack Straw said on Wednesday that the government would spend 1.2 billion pounds to create 10,500 extra jail places by 2014 to help tackle a crisis of overcrowding in prisons.

He said this would increase jail capacity to 96,000 places from around 81,500 now.

“The measures I have announced will fulfill our commitment to provide a modernised prison system which protects the public from the most serious offenders,” Straw said.

Legislation on indeterminate sentences — blamed for adding to the overcrowding problem — would be altered so that they could not be given for tariffs of less than two years, he added.

Death toll jumps to 105 in N China coal mine gas blast

TAIYUAN, 7 Dec — Rescuers found 26 additional bodies in the shaft of the Xinyao Coal Mine on Friday morning, bringing the death toll to 105, following a gas explosion in the mine in Shanxi Province on Wednesday.

The explosion happened at 11:15 pm Wednesday inside the Xinyao Coal Mine, a village-run coal mining venture in Hongtong County, Linfen. Exact figures for the number of staff in the mine at the time of the accident were still being established.

Rescue officials on Friday said that at least 120 miners, instead of the previously reported 111, were inside the shaft when the accident took place.

The latest information on survivors was that 15 workers either escaped or were rescued later.

The cause of the accident has yet to be determined.

There was a delay of about six hours in reporting the explosion to the local authorities, who did not learn of it until 5.00 am Thursday.

The authorities said that they believed the colliery managers delayed in reporting the accident while they tried to mount their own operations, which meant that a crucial window of time for rescue passed and casualties probably increased.

Make preparations for the future

What are the root causes of the present conflict in the internal affairs and slow economic growth of Myanmar? It can be clear to one only if one reviews the past incidents. In this regard, I would like to put some questions?

- What is Federal System?
- What made it necessary for signing the Panglong Agreement?
- Do you know who was the main culprit behind the 19-7-1947 assassination of Myanmar leaders?
- Why did Myanmar’s practice of the Parliamentary Democracy System in the post-independence period fail?
- Why did the Revolutionary Council government have to take power?
- Why did U Ne Win practise the closed-door economic system?
- Why does not Myanmar see a puppet government of super powers unlike some countries?
- What was behind economic sanctions imposed against Myanmar by certain major western countries?

I wish only those who realize the correct answers to these questions engage in politics. Otherwise, they will face undesirable consequences however much they are spending their time and energy.

Any of the anti-government movements is associated with one political instigation or another. There is no secret that recent protest marches were due to the political instigation carried out at home and abroad that can make the people get into trouble.

I would like to urge those who consider themselves to have talents and qualifications to make brilliant performances in the international community instead of doing acts that can harm the interests of the nation and the people. Here I do not want to say how to do lest my suggestions might be deemed to belittle the abilities of the people, and I believe that Myanmar people are endowed with abilities and mental faculty. I think anyone of such people should not make a comment: it is impossible. Each person has only one head. Without doubt if a person works hard with tenacity he will be able to make a good headway. Whether he dares to venture or not depends on him.

In Iraq, for example, many factions are engaged in clashes among themselves, and in consequence, that makes the nation weaker, the people have to deal with a wide range of problems. Some of the people in the nation dare to risk their dear lives. However, these activities are largely due to thoughtlessness. In fact, such activities do not bring any benefits to their country and people. They do not know who is their true enemy. They have failed to build national unity and to drive their common enemy out of their country.

Now, it is required of Myanmar people to weigh the prevailing situations as they really are. So, they have to be aware of and avert any situations in which a wedge is driven among the people, and the people are trapped and troubled. If they are not clever enough to realize these situations, they will face physical and mental sufferings. With this concept, they should review the past incidents.

What the neo-colonialists want regarding Myanmar affairs is not to help practise democracy and enjoy human rights fully. Their real intention is to make sure that national consolidation will not be built, weaken the nation, and install a puppet dictatorial government in the nation. Britain’s “angel of death” freedom appeal quashed

London, 8 Dec — A serial-killer nurse, dubbed the “angel of death” after she murdered four young patients and injured another nine, had her bid for early release thrown out at the High Court on Thursday. Beverly Allitt, now 39, was given 13 life sentences in 1993 for the killing spree on her child patients, while she worked at the Grantham and Kesteven Hospital in Lincolnshire.

She had applied to be released on the grounds of mental illness but Mr Justice Stanley Burnton confirmed her minimum jail tariff at 30 years.

Referring to the victims’ families, two of whom were in court, the judge said they had “received a life sentence from which there is no remission (and) no release on licence”.

“The impact of these offences does not require to be described and could not be exaggerated,” he added. “You lived lives were cut short at their inception. “The offences to the children took place in what should have been — and what their families must have believed to be—a place of safety (but) the offender made it into a place of extreme danger. “Each of the offences is an immense personal tragedy for the family concerned.” — MNA/Reuters

New York City sued for harassing photographers

New York, 8 Dec — New York City police officers need better training to distinguish between law-abiding citizens who snap pictures of city landmarks and those suspected of plotting terrorism, a lawsuit filed on Thursday by the New York Civil Liberties Union said.

The lawsuit was filed against the city and Police Commissioner Raymond Kelly on behalf of Arun Wiita, 26, a Columbia University graduate student of Indian descent who said he was handcuffed and detained after a police officer spotted him snapping pictures near a Manhattan subway station in July.

The civil liberties union said the department has harassed photographers, "particularly those who fit Middle Eastern or South Asian racial and ethnic profiles," according to papers filed in federal court.

“There has been a constant refrain that we’ve heard from the photography community for several years now,” said Christopher Dunn, NYCLU associate legal director and the lead attorney on the case. MNA/Reuters

“Ten years after the signing of the NATO-Russian Founding Act, this partnership has entered a challenging phase,” they said.

“We value and want to continue our constructive and frank dialogue with Russia, including on issues on which we disagree,” they said after a meeting in Brussels.

As expected, ministers failed to narrow differences with Moscow over the future of the Serb province of Kosovo and Russia’s suspension of a key European arms control pact in a brief meeting in Brussels with Russian counterpart Sergei Lavrov. MNA/Reuters

HK tanker spills 15,000 tons of crude near S Korea coast

Seoul, 8 Dec — A 146,000-ton Hong Kong-registered tanker was hit by a crane while at anchor off the port of Taean, south of Seoul, causing a leak of 15,000 tons of crude oil, Seoul’s Maritime Ministry said on Friday.

Pakistan backs Iran’s right to use nuke technology peacefully

ISLAMABAD, 7 Dec—Pakistan said on Wednesday that it supported Iran’s right to use nuclear technology peacefully.

“It has been Pakistan’s principle stand that Iran has the right to peaceful nuclear technology,” Foreign Office spokesman Muhammad Sadiq said at a weekly Press briefing.

As a member of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT), Iran has certain obligations but those do not prevent Iran from having a peaceful nuclear programme, Sadiq said.

Meanwhile, to questions about Bush’s new regarding direct action if al-Qaeda leader Osama bin Ladin was spotted in Pakistan, the spokesman said that foreign intervention inside Pakistani territory was unacceptable.

He said that Pakistan was part of the global fight against terrorism but would not allow any other country to take action inside the country.

Donors pledge extra $406m in bird flu funds

NEW DELHI, 7 Dec—Foreign donors have pledged 406 million US dollars in additional funds for efforts to combat bird flu, but another 800 million US dollars is still needed and countries still need to be better prepared for any pandemic, officials said on Thursday.

The funds were pledged on the final day of a three-day summit in New Delhi, India, of experts on avian influenza from across the world, aimed at coordinating strategies to combat the disease.

“Countries are much better prepared now than they were a year ago for a pandemic, however the preparedness is not as broad or deep as we would like it to be,” David Nabarro, the United Nations influenza coodinator, told reporters.

“Although some countries have tested their preparedness and exercises ... there is still more testing to be done because when the pandemic does come it will be too late to prepare,” he added.

Last year at a similar meeting around 475 million US dollars was pledged by donors, but experts played down the apparent shortfall in funding, saying they were confident further funds would be forthcoming.

US Coast Guard says cocaine seizures hit $4.7b record

WASHINGTON, 8 Dec—The US Coast Guard on Thursday announced record annual cocaine seizures worth more than 4.7 billion US dollars and said trafficking in the illicit drug appears to be shifting from the Caribbean to the Pacific.

The Coast Guard said it captured 355.755 pounds (161,368 kilos) of cocaine in the past year. The largest seizure was 20 tons (18.1 metric tons) of the narcotic discovered aboard a Panamanian vessel in March.

Coast Guard Commandant Admiral Thad Allen said drug smugglers have resorted to riskier tactics to evade interdiction at sea including the practice of dissolving cocaine in diesel fuel. The Coast Guard, the leading US maritime law enforcement agency, said smugglers are also turning increasingly to Pacific Ocean routes, including via the Galapagos Islands, due to aggressive enforcement efforts that it said have all but shut down major routes in the Caribbean Sea.

Colombia is the world’s biggest producer of cocaine, followed by its Andean neighbours Peru and Bolivia, according to the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime.

Study says older brains become less coordinated

CHICAGO, 7 Dec —

Forgot where you put your keys? Or your car? If you are over 60, it may just be a normal part of aging, US researchers said on Wednesday in a study that suggests brain structures deteriorate with age in otherwise healthy people.

The study, published in the journal Neuron, is part of an effort by researchers at Harvard University to understand the difference between normal, age-related declines and clinical impairment.

“We’re trying to understand the edge of that boundary between normal aging and Alzheimer’s disease,” said Randy Buckner, a Harvard professor and Howard Hughes Medical Institute researcher who worked on the study. Buckner and colleagues took brain scans of 55 adults ages 60 and over, and 38 younger adults ages 35 and younger.

They used an imaging technique called PET to detect the presence of amyloid, a chemical typically associated with Alzheimer’s disease, to rule out those whose memory declines were disease-related.

What they found is that some brain systems become less coordinated with age. “It looks like it is an effect of normal aging independent of Alzheimer’s disease,” Buckner said in a telephone interview. They found brain structures called white matter tracts, which carry information between different regions of the brain, were deteriorating only in the older group.

“In young adults, the front of the brain was pretty well in sync with the back of the brain,” Jessica Andrews-Hanna, a graduate student in Buckner’s lab, said in a statement. “In older adults this was not the case. The regions became out of sync and they were less correlated with each other.” — MNA/Reuters

WHO says children dying for lack of child-sized drugs

LONDON, 7 Dec —

Children are dying for lack of drugs tailored to their needs, according to the World Health Organization (WHO), which launched a global campaign on Thursday to promote more research into child medicine.

More than half of the drugs currently used to treat children in the industrialized world have not been specifically tested on youngsters, even though they metabolize medicines differently to adults.

As a result, clinicians lack clear guidelines on the best drug to use and often have to guess at the correct dose. The problem is even worse in developing countries where price remains a major barrier and six million children die each year from treatable conditions.

In the case of HIV/AIDS, the few existing paediatric therapies developed for children generally cost three times more than adult ones.

In a bid to address the problem, the WHO has drawn up the first international List of Essential Medicines for Children, containing 206 products deemed safe for children that tackle priority conditions. — MNA/Reuters

Chile reduces international bans on five players

SANTIAGO, 8 Dec — Chile has halved the 20-match international bans imposed on five players including team captain Jorge Valdivia for indiscipline during this year’s Copa America in Venezuela.

The Chilean league (ANFP) said in a statement that Pablo Contreras, Reinaldo Navia, Rodrigo Tello, Jorge Vargas and Valdivia had publicly apologised for the incident. It did not mention defender Alvaro Ormeno, the other player who was suspended.

"The players will be eligible for future selection by the national team coach once the relative administrative formalities have been concluded," said the ANFP.

FIFA says World Cup qualifiers free of match-fixing

BERN (Switzerland), 8 Dec — The first phase of qualifying for the 2010 FIFA World Cup finals in South Africa has shown no signs of match-fixing, FIFA said on Friday.

"World soccer’s governing body issued a statement saying the early warning system set up to monitor gambling on international matches had found "no irregular betting activities during the first phase of the 2010 FIFA World Cup preliminary competition."

"It can therefore be concluded that there have been no attempts from betting circles to influence or manipulate approximately 90 matches that have been played since August 2007."

Suspicion of match-fixing were raised last week when European soccer’s governing body UEFA said it had forwarded a dossier containing information on 15 matches to European police.

The matches had been brought to their attention because of irregular betting patterns rather than any hard evidence of wrongdoing by any of the clubs involved.

The organization has begun a disciplinary investigation into one match, an Intertoto Cup game between Bulgarian side Cherno More Varna and Macedonia’s Makednija Skopje.

Red star defends arrested club officials

BELGRADE, 8 Dec — Serbian champions Red Star Belgrade defended the club’s three arrested officials shortly after they were apprehended on Friday over a riot at a league match in which a police man was seriously injured.

The club’s secretary general Zoran Damjanovic, stadium manager Miodrag Corovic and security chief Novica Mijuskovic were arrested with match delegate Rade Popovic and all four have been charged with “causing a state of general danger”.

"The club states that its officials have done everything in their power under the law on preventing violence at sports events,” the club said on its website (www.crvenazvezdafk.com).

"Security at stadiums cannot be the sole responsibility of football clubs and Thursday’s UEFA Cup match between Red Star and Bolton is a good example how it works when all competent institutions act accordingly,” it said.

"Red Star is grateful to police and other state authorities for their assistance in organising the match and to the fans for their exemplary behaviour,” the club said.

Female suicide bomber kills 16 in Iraq

BAHRAIN, 8 Dec — A female suicide bomber wearing a vest packed with explosives killed 16 people on Friday in an attack northeast of Baghdad on former Sunni Arab insurgents who have joined with security forces to fight al-Qaeda, police said.

Another 27 people were wounded in the blast in the town of Muqdadiya, 90 kilometres (55 miles) northeast of Baghdad, in volatile Diyala, a religiously and ethnically mixed province which has become one of the most dangerous areas of Iraq.

Women and children were among the wounded, police said.

A “surge” of 30,000 extra US troops and the growing use of neighbourhood security patrols, organized by mainly Sunni Arab tribal leaders, has helped reduce violence in Iraq to its lowest levels in almost two years.

The security crackdown has squeezed Sunni Islamists out of their former stronghold in western Anbar, where the neighbourhood units sprang up last year, into other areas north of Baghdad like Diyala.

Police said Friday’s attack targeted a building used by members of the 1920 Revolutionary Brigades, a Sunni Arab insurgency group.

A number of its members have begun working alongside security forces against al-Qaeda.

While overall attacks have fallen 55 percent in Iraq since the “surge” was deployed, in mid-June, General David Petraeus, commander of US forces in Iraq, warned on Thursday that al-Qaeda remained a dangerous foe that would seek to launch major assaults.

Two killed after car fills home with CO fumes in Canada

OTTAWA, 8 Dec — An elderly Canadian couple died of carbon monoxide poisoning Wednesday after they left their car running in the garage filling their home with fumes.

Nine others, including eight emergency workers, were treated in hospital for the effects of carbon monoxide poisoning in the western city of Calgary, reports said Thursday.

The authorities were alerted when the couple’s adult son called for help saying he was suffering symptoms of a heart attack. Emergency workers evacuated the building when they found the mother was also in cardiac arrest.

In total, 11 people were affected by the odorless fumes. Four firefighters, two paramedics and two Calgary police officers suffered the effects of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police sent additional units to the house, who helped transfer the victims to hospital. They are expected to make a full recovery.

Carbon monoxide blocks the absorption of oxygen into the bloodstream from the lungs and poisons the red blood cells so they cannot carry oxygen. If body tissues do not receive a constant supply of oxygen, they stop functioning.

Early symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning include confusion, headache, nausea and fatigue, which are often mistaken for flu.

Carbon monoxide is the leading cause of fatal poisonings in North America, according to the Canada Safety Council.
