Open more model villages for rural development

In an effort to ensure rural development, the government is making all-out efforts for the development of education, health and social sectors while bringing about better transport.

Clinton, Obama neck-and-neck ahead of Super Tuesday

WASHINGTON, 4 Feb — Democrats Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton are running neck-and-neck in California, New Jersey and Missouri two days before the sprawling “Super Tuesday” presidential showdown, according to a Reuters/C-SPAN/Zogby poll released on Sunday. Obama has a slight lead in California and is virtually tied with Clinton in New Jersey and Missouri heading into the biggest day of voting in a US presidential nominating campaign, with contests in 24 states from coast to coast.

“It looks like we have some serious horse races going on with Clinton and Obama,” said pollster John Zogby. “However it turns out, we can be pretty sure it is too close to be resolved on Tuesday.”

Obama, an Illinois senator who would be the first Black US president, has a comfortable 20-point lead in Georgia fuelled by a more than three-to-one advantage over Clinton among Black voters.

Egypt closes border with Gaza

Cairo, 3 Feb — Egypt closed the last breach of the border fence along the Egyptian-Gaza border on Sunday morning amid efforts exerted to mediate among parties concerned on the administration of Rafah crossing.

About 300 Egyptian military troops were deployed near Rafah crossing along the Egyptian border with Gaza to stop the flow of Palestinians into the Egyptian side, a security source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

Egyptian forces, with barbed wire and metal barricades, sealed the only remaining gap on the Egyptian side of the border fence, which was blew up by Palestinian militants on 23 Jan to allow tens of thousands of Palestinians in Gaza to cross into Egypt in the past 11 days.

Suspect killer in Bhutto’s assassination case remanded

ISLAMABAD, 4 Feb — A teenager suspected to be a member of a squad of suicide bombers, who reportedly killed former Pakistani prime minister Benazir Bhutto, was remanded to police for further questioning on Saturday, News Network International (NNI) news agency reported.

The 15-year-old boy, Aitzaz Shah, was arrested in the northwestern city of Dera Ismail Khan last month. Shah had told investigators that he was a member of the back-up group of suicide bombers who killed Bhutto in the city of Rawalpindi on 27 December last year.

He was later shifted to Islamabad for questioning and a court gave his 10-day custody to police for interrogation. The Anti-Terrorism Court Judge, Chaudhry Habibullah, accepted request by the police that the suspect must be again remanded for further questioning, according to the NNI.

Experts blame China’s snow disaster on La Nina

NANCHANG, 4 Feb — The rare prolonged snowstorms and low temperatures that have caused havoc in many parts of China are mainly related to the La Nina phenomenon and abnormal atmospheric circulation, Chinese meteorologists said.

The severe weather strongly resembled the aftermath of La Nina events, which indicated that the latest development of La Nina was a primary cause of the abnormal snow, meteorologists at the Jiangxi Provincial Meteorological Bureau said.

La Nina is a large pool of unusually cold water in the equatorial Pacific that develops every few years and influences global weather. It is the climatic opposite of El Nino, which is a warming of the Pacific.

Iran urges UN Council patience on sanctions

Addis Ababa, 4 Feb—Iranian Foreign Minister Manouchehr Mottaki urged the UN Security Council on Saturday to wait for a report from its atomic watchdog agency before taking any decision on a new sanctions resolution.

Ministers from the five permanent members of the Security Council—the United States, China, Russia, France and Britain—as well as Germany, are said not to agree on the draft text of a new resolution last week in Berlin.

The draft, a watered down version of what Washington wanted because of resistance from China and Russia, has been circulated to the entire 15-member Council and a senior French diplomat said on Friday that some non-permanent members are stalling.

Pierre Vimont, France’s Ambassador to the United States, said several members wanted to give the UN International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), more time to negotiate with Iran before taking further punitive measures.

“The realistic recommendation to all parties—including the five plus one—is to keep their patience and wait for the report of...the IAEA,” Mottaki told reporters on the sidelines of an African Union summit in Ethiopia.

IAEA says no significant damage to Japan in quake

Tokyo, 4 Feb—An experts team of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) said Friday that Japan’s Kashiwazaki-Kariwa nuclear power plant in Niigata Prefecture suffered no significant damage in a massive earthquake last July.

Concluding a five-day follow-up check of the complex, Philippe Jamet, director of the IAEA’s Nuclear Instalation Safety Division and head of the team, told reporters here earlier in the day that they did not see so far any significant damage on the safety-related parts.

The 12 experts revisited the power plant on Thursday and held talks with officials of Japan’s Nuclear and Industrial Safety Agency and the power company. They also checked underground geological conditions at the site and the insides of the reactor pressure vessels using a camera.

Paraguay court sentences owners in supermarket fire

Asuncion, 4 Feb—A Paraguayan court sentenced the owners and managers of a supermarket to prison on Saturday, after a fire caused by negligence killed 327 people in 2004, seen as the country’s worst peace time disaster. The court sentenced the owner, his son, a security guard and a major shareholder in the Ycua Bolanos V supermarket to prison terms ranging from 2-1/2 years to 12 years, sparking outrage from survivors and victims’ families.

In addition to the large death toll, at least 400 people were injured when the supermarket burned down in August 2004 after a fire started in a chimney that investigators said was poorly built and poorly maintained. The supermarket also lacked an effective fire detection system and the court said it failed to meet minimum safety standards, including proper emergency exits.

The two sides also will expand their cooperation in culture, education, tourism, human resources development and further deepen the consultations and cooperation between the foreign ministers of the two countries.

Yang arrived here earlier on Saturday for a three-day visit to Brunei.

Venezuela seeks up-front cash for $1b fuel oil

CARACAS, 4 Feb — Venezuela’s state-run oil company PDVSA is seeking a one-billion-US-dollar up-front payment for several large shipments of fuel oil, El Universal newspaper reported on Saturday, in what may be a new sign of cash flow problems.

Under the deal, Venezuela is selling the fuel relatively cheaply but wants payment next week, the newspaper said.

PDVSA wants to find buyers for eight very large crude carrier cargoes of fuel oil by 6 February and expects payment the following day.

President Hugo Chavez uses PDVSA as the financial engine of his socialist revolution, drawing down capital for social projects, and analysts say the company is facing a cash crunch despite high crude prices. In December, PDVSA cut the payment time for oil exports to eight days from a month, citing a weakening dollar.

The company has increased the practice of borrowing money and settling debts by directly paying in oil and products. In 2007, the company’s debt soared to 16 billion US dollars on heavy borrowing to pay for operations and a spate of nationalizations.

Chinese edible oil consumption to hit 22.5 mln tons in ’08

BEIJING, 4 Feb — Chinese edible oil consumption is likely to reach 22.4 million tons in 2008, up 1.5 million tons from last year’s 21 tons, a high-ranking official from the State Grain Administration (SGA) said on Saturday.

According to SGA statistics, Chinese consumption of edible oil increased at a stable rate due to the improved life brought by the economic boom.

The consumption per capita now reached 17.1 kilograms annually, almost double that of a decade ago.

A potential shortage in edible oil has been recognized, resulting from the enhanced consumption and increasing need for soybean meals. Two-thirds of edible oil materials in China, the largest global consumer, relies on imports. According to General Administration of Customs statistics, imports of edible oil and soybean reached 8.38 million tons and 30.82 million tons, respectively, last year, up 1.69 million tons and 2.58 million tons year on year.

ADDIS ABABA, 4 Feb — The 10th African Union (AU) Summit ended here Saturday after African leaders agreed to jointly promote industrialization and elected a new AU Commission chairperson.

With the theme of “Industrial Development of Africa”, the summit was held from Thursday to Saturday.

Over 40 African leaders have extensively discussed how to promote industrialization and economic cooperation in the continent.

At the closing ceremony, Jean Ping expressed his gratitude to African leaders for electing him as the new Commission chairman, saying the Commission would work closely with the leaders to achieve African unity and development.

Tanzanian President Jakaya Kikwete was elected as the new AU chairperson, whose term will be one year, to succeed Ghanaian President John Kufuor.

ECONOMIC NEWS
“Hello, Ko Aung. Are you on your way home?”
“No, I am on duty.”
“Well, Ko Aung, can I ask you a question?”
“All right, you can.”
“While you were in university, you studied politics a lot, and you were very active in politics. Now, you are unusually quiet. Why?”
“I do not think you know much about me.”
“What is that?”
“I admit, in my youth, I studied politics seriously, was active, and now I am very quiet. You are right. My father once told me that politicians were very eloquent, and I should not trust them. And he suggested that I study politics thoroughly so that I would not be deceived. Well, I give my father a promise that I would never practise politics.”
“My father explained his true stories to me to give me advice. He was a farmer and he went through anti-colonialist movements and Anti-Fascist Resistance. He also fell victim to the internal armed conflicts. All the politicians who visited our village paid lip-service all the time. But, in the end, we had to leave all our property and abandon our village. How could we lead a peaceful life in such a place full of crimes such as burning down houses, unfair occupation of paddy fields, killing cattle for dishes, murder, robbery and rapes. These were undesirable consequences of internal armed insurgency.

“However, in the Parliamentary Democracy period, those criminals became members of the parliament. But, it was very ungrateful of them to fail to do anything for development of our village. When they were powerful in our region, we local people had to do what they asked us, we had to go where they sent us, and we had to give them what they demanded us. But, they had no dealings with us. My father felt very bitter about that.

“That was why my father asked me my promise that I would never practise politics. In fact, what politicians said and what they did were absolutely different from each other. I came to know about their behaviours more and more. I experienced the miserable incidents of the nation.”

“Not every politician was dishonest.”

“Yes, some politicians were upright, but just a small number. In the post-independence period, many persons who made sacrifices with patriotic spirit in the independence struggles committed the massacre of all the people of Hsinswe village. They hit to death some for their throats with bamboo sticks along the Yoma mountain range. I was irritated by hearing the news about the line of dismissal, removal and execution. What did brother Nu do? He formed a government in exile and rose against the nation, didn’t he? Bo Kyaw Zaw did the same. When I was young, I thought highly of him because he often demanded for internal peace. Now, what is he doing? Now, it is in the 21st century. Some people are still sticking to the ideas that were popular in the colonial period, and in the Cold War period.”

“Many of the persons I admired in the past lost their reputation when they got old.”

“I agree with you in this point.”

“What do you think about Bogyoke (Major General) Aung San?”

“In my opinion, he was the leader in the independence struggles, the leader of the founding father of the Tatmadaw (armed forces), and the leader who sacrificed his life for the nation and the people. I admire him. There are many other national leaders in the world. Indeed, they well deserve admiration and honour.”

“Go on, please.”

“I respect and admire Bogyoke Aung San for his behaviours rather than for leadership role he played in the independence struggles. Don’t you think I am an awkward customer in words and deeds? Have you ever noticed any polite manners in my behaviour? I always try to emulate his behaviours and attitude. So, I do what should be done, but I don’t say what is unnecessary. If necessary, I will never hesitate to sacrifice my life because I emulated his patriotic spirit and heroic spirit.”

“He was the pioneer of the nation’s independence. Regaining of our country’s independence was largely due to his sacrifices, wasn’t it.”

“Yes, he was the father of the nation. No one owns him, nor does his family and I. The State alone is the owner. He was one of the prominent State leaders in the period of the independence struggles. But, we should not ignore the role of the people. I don’t think it is wise if we ignore the role of our forefathers and the people who also made sacrifices, withstood hardships with tenacity, sacrificed lives, were loyal to the nation, remained united, and took part in the struggles.”

“I am still proud of the role my grandfathers and father played in obscurity in the independence struggles. But they were not as popular as Bogyoke Aung San. They died ordinary people. For me, I do not betray my country. I try not to become an axe-handle.”

“I am still proud of the role my grandfathers and father played in obscurity in the independence struggles. But they were not as popular as Bogyoke Aung San. They died ordinary people. For me, I do not betray my country. I try not to become an axe-handle.”

“It is just my personal opinion. The term “politician” is defined variously in various treatises. In our country, there are many sorts of politicians. We can categorize them into various kinds, based on their innate nature and characters, such as seasonal politicians, conditional politicians, jealous politicians, fair-weather politicians, opportunist politicians, dare-devil politicians, stunt politicians, waving politicians, and salad politicians.”

“What happened after independence?”

“Why don’t you study the history? There were disagreements among politicians not only in the pre-independence period but also in the post-independence period and even at present. They have not settled the disagreements.”

“What? Why?”

“It was because they were power-craving. They vied with one another for power. They practised politics, looking forward to opportunities behind power. As a matter of fact, they were not true politicians, they were making use of politics. There are many kinds of politicians who are making use of politics.”

“What you have said to me is all strange to me.”

“It is just my personal opinion. The term “politician” is defined variously in various treatises. In our country, there are many sorts of politicians. We can categorize them into various kinds, based on their innate nature and characters, such as seasonal politicians, conditional politicians, jealous politicians, fair-weather politicians, opportunist politicians, dare-devil politicians, stunt politicians, waving politicians, and salad politicians.”

“Oh, too many kinds of politicians.”

“There are some more sorts of politicians; politicians who try to seize power through shortcut, and puppet politicians.”

“Are they all?”

“No, they are not all, there are more such as expatriate politicians, outlaw politicians, and deaf and dumb and blind politicians.”

“Deaf and dumb and blind politicians? I have never heard of that before.”

(See page 7)
In short, this sort of politicians are turning a blind eye to the tasks the government is carrying out for national development, peace and stability, democratic transition, and market economy. And they never say about what the government is carrying out. So, I say they are blind, deaf and dumb politicians. "Maybe, it is because they do not know about that." "If so, I would say they are mentally-ill politicians." "Oh, what an outspoken word!" "I said short and to the point." "It seems to me that you do not have clear outlook on politicians." "Is there any politician who we can have clear outlook on? Show me if there is any?" "I have no idea." "Personally, a politician should give priority to the interests of the nation and the people and shape a brighter future of the people. If he has not been able to do so, he should join hands with and recognize those who are able to do so. Such kind of politicians who are not self-centered and power-craving, and are honest and upright and willing to serve the interests of the people are good politicians." "What sort of politicians are evil politicians?" "I have already mentioned that. Such kind of politicians who disrupt national development tasks, who dissuade international community from making investments in and visiting Myanmar, and who persuade external elements to impose sanctions against the nation. Please think whether what they have done is beneficial to the people or not." "What is your opinion in this regard?" "If a person says that he is a real politician, then he should stand for forthcoming elections. Politics is a long-term service, not short-term service, not just for power. Politics means serving the interests of the people constantly. If a politician does not want to work in the public interest, but is saying unnecessary words, he will get nothing except being tired." "Ko Aung, what you have said is all food for thought." "The more you think about what I have said to you, the better it will. You should not only think but also consider and assess them with foresight. The more you do so, the more you will know that the words of politicians are good for nothing, and that they are acting upon rumours and gossips, and are exaggerating the news with negative views. You should consider their words in practice, rather than theoretically." "Ko Aung, what are you doing now?" "I am just a public member. So, I am trying to be dutiful, but not giving lip-service." "Let’s meet again, if opportune."

The government has been undertaking development tasks and community welfare services continuously with the aims of narrowing the economic and social gaps between states and divisions and between one region and another and bringing about equitable development among those regions, he added. He said every nation in the world accepts that education is the major sector for development of the nation and its people. Highly-qualified human resources are essential for building a developed nation and raising the living standard of the people. These are national requirements. Therefore, the government is implementing the national education promotion programmes with the opening of universities and colleges to produce educated human resources in major areas, he said.

He quoted the Head of State as saying that education is a major task to be implemented for years so it is necessary to draft and carry out the 30-year long-term plan. Education is the most basic sector for development of the peoples. Arrangements are also being made to construct modern buildings at the universities and colleges, to provide modern teaching aids, to draw modern school curriculums and syllabuses and to improve the qualifications of the teachers.

Being able to build such education, health and transport infrastructures by spending a large amount of money is attributed to development of the national economy. At the same time, economic infrastructures are being built to further improve the State economy.

Moreover, the projects for dams, river-water pumping and underground water tapping are being undertaken for development of Sagaing Division including Kalay region. In Kalay region alone, Zedi, Watshu, Thannan, Thabye and Hsegyi diversion weirs and Manipur and Rasagyo dams are under construction. As a result, the division’s paddy cultivation acreage has increased from 1.2 million to 2.3 million and there is local sufficiency as well as the surplus of 80 million baskets of paddy.

Therefore, Sagaing Division is to try to improve its socio-economy more and more by making better use of the infrastructures built by the State. The more efforts the division makes, the more it will develop as it is already blessed with its resources. There are hydro power resources along the Chidwin Basin and when the hydro power projects have been completed, the division will be able to boost its production as well as the living standards of the local people.

The State for its part is striving for the equitable development of all the states and divisions regardless of those with or without natural resources. With lofty aims, the State is trying to hand down good legacies to the posterity in political, economic, social and transport sectors.

Relentless efforts are being made with sincere goodwill in the interest of the state and the people as well as in ensuring the perpetuation of the Union. At a time when efforts are being made for all-round development of the State there have reigned a series of accusation and pressures of some big nations. It is regrettable that those countries imposed sanctions against the nation politically, economically and diplomatically.

At such a time, the entire national people are to try their utmost on self-reliant basis for development of the nation and regions of their own. At the same time, Technological University (Kalay) and universities are to strive for the emergence of intellectuals and technocrats as well as engineers and youths capable of bringing about regional development and of safeguarding the Union. As the strength of the nation lies within it is required for the State, the people and the Tatmadaw to make integrated and well-coordinated efforts.

In the process of political reform the National Convention was successfully held in line with the seven-step Road Map and the new State constitution is now being drafted. Only when the education standard of the people is high will they be able to distinguish right from wrong and choose the most suitable democratic system. It is incumbent upon the education sector to widen the horizon of youths and to train and nurture them to become ones on whom the State can rely. The entire national people are to make continued efforts for successful realization of the seven-step Road Map with duty consciousness and national outlook.

In conclusion, he stressed the importance for Technological University (Kalay) to strive together with the people under the leadership of the government for the constant emergence of qualified human resources capable of building a new peaceful, modern, developed democratic nation and of safeguarding the nation.

Next, Principal Dr Phone Kyaw presented the salient points of the technological university. After that, second year (B.Tech) student Maung Man Nawt spoke words of thanks in English for opening of the technological university in Kalay.

PESHAWAR (Pakistan), 4 Feb—Three Islamist militants and two policemen were killed on Saturday in a firefight in northwester Pakistan, an increasingly restive region on the Afghan border, police said.

The shootout near Mardan in the North West Frontier Province erupted after police raided a house where militants were hiding. Residents said the fighting lasted about seven hours and the militants hurled grenades and fired rockets at the police.

“The militants refused to surrender and opened fire on police, forcing us to retaliate,” said Abdullah Khan, a senior police officer in Mardan.

Police said they had recovered the bodies of three militants and some suicide vests from the house. Two policemen were killed and one was wounded in the fighting, they said.

Mardan, a town around 40 kilometres (25 miles) northwest of the provincial capital, Peshawar, has so far been largely free of the violence which has spread from remote tribal areas on the border known as sanctuaries for al-Qaeda and the Afghan Taliban. Nine British soldiers arrested in Cyprus

London, 4 Feb—Nine British soldiers have been arrested after allegedly going on the rampage in the holiday resort of Ayia Napa in Cyprus, the BBC reported on Sunday.

Bird flu detected in northern Turkey

Ankara, 4 Feb—Turkish Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs confirmed on Sunday that bird flu was detected in the Black Sea province of Samsun.

The virus was detected upon examination of samples taken from local poultry in Yorukler Town, the ministry said in a statement.

“Laboratories of our ministry detected bird flu in those samples,” it said, adding that “we’ve determined that the wild waterfowls in the region are the source of the sickness”.

The disease has only spread to a small area and officials have taken all the necessary measures to fight it, the statement said.

Last month, the deadly HSN1 strain of bird flu was confirmed in a Black Sea coastal village, about 350 kilometres west of Samsun.

Being en route of migrating birds, Turkey is facing high bird flu risk and the first case in the country was detected in Bandırma Town in northwestern Turkey in 2005.

Mexico slaps tickets on men shaving at wheel

MONTERREY (MEXICO), 4 Feb—Motorists in northern Mexico who are caught dabbing on lipstick, shaving or carrying a pet at the wheel will now face hefty fines as authorities try to cut down on traffic accidents.

Putting on make-up or shaving with an electric razor will land drivers fines of up to 34 pesos (32 US dollars) in the northern Mexican city of Torreon from this month, Mexican media reported on Saturday.

Along with a slew of higher fines for common traffic offenses such as driving while intoxicated, speeding, and talking on a telephone without a headset, Torreon city hall said new misdemeanors included throwing trash out of a car window, and driving with another person or an animal on a motorist’s lap.

City halls across Mexico are stiffening traffic laws as motorists in Mexico regularly ignore stop lights, drive drunk or with children in the front seat, and carry passengers in the back of pick-up trucks. Fatal accidents are common.

Beijing closes ten industrial polluters

BEIJING, 4 Feb—Ten industrial polluters have been shut down, as Beijing and its neighbours have worked hard to fulfill their Olympic commitment in curbing major pollutant emissions.

Sources with the co-ordination work group for guaranteeing air quality for Beijing 2008 Olympic Games confirmed that ten big polluters, mainly cement, steel and chemical plants, have been shut down in the latest round of mandatory emission control work.

The work group coordinates the emission control work of six municipal and provincial-level environment protection departments in Beijing, Tianjin municipalities, Hebei, Shanxi, Shandong provinces and the Inner Mongolia Autonomous Region.

The State Environmental Protection Administration (SEPA) has set the agenda to cut sulfur dioxide and chemical oxygen demand (COD), two major pollutants emissions in China, by 6 per cent and 5 per cent respectively in 2008, China’s Olympic year from 2005 levels.

The environment protection authorities under the coordination of the work group said that more factories will be closed down this year, but did not give the exact figures.

Bigger sengi mammal found in central Tanzania

DAR-ES-SALAAM, 4 Feb — A larger and heavier sengi, also known as elephant-shrew, has been found in central Tanzania, local media reported on Saturday.

The Citizen newspaper quoted scientists as saying that the new species of sengi had been spotted in the Morogoro region with a body mass 25 per cent bigger than any other known sengis.

Fifteen species of sengis were known before the discovery of the new species. The newspaper quoted Galen Rathbun of the California Academy of Sciences as saying that it is the first new species of giant elephant-shrew to be discovered in more than 126 years.

The discovery has been published in the February edition of the Journal of Zoology magazine.

The newly-identified species of sengis weigh 700 grammes while other species of sengis weigh between 50 grammes and 500 grammes. Getting their name from the Bantu language, the sengis live only in Africa. Their life span is about two or three years and their diet is largely insects and other small creatures like beetles, spiders, worms, ants and termites, but they also take seeds and some green shoots.

China detains nine over Olympic website scam

NANJING, 4 Feb—Police authorities in Nanjing, capital of east China’s Jiangsu Province, have detained nine people for operating a fake Olympic website to cheat money out of people.

They were suspected of cheating 300,000 yuan (41,660 US dollars) out of more than 100 people from across the country, by goading them into depositing at least 1,000 yuan (140 US dollars) each to get a cash award 20 to 40 times as much, plus a ticket for this summer’s Olympic Games, sources with Nanjing police said.

The two leaders of the ring, surnamed Xu and Chen, did not even finish high school but were Internet gaming addicts.

With the help of their friends, they created a phony Olympic sponsorship website in December at www.2008cga.com.cn.

Whoever visited the website were encouraged to sign in as its member to win an award.

All the “lucky” award winners said they never realized it was a scam until after their cash remittance.

Kenya’s elephant population stands at 11,700 in Tsavo

NAIROBI, 4 Feb—Kenya’s wildlife authorities said on Saturday the population of elephants in the expansive Tsavo conservation area now stands at 11,696 from 364 pesos (32 US dollars) in the last census three years ago. The Kenya Wildlife Service (KWS) said in a statement that the new figure from this year’s census represents a 4.1-per-cent growth rate.

The larger Tsavo is the largest protected area (4 per cent of Kenya’s landmass) and hosts the highest-est number (a third) of Kenya’s estimated 30,000 elephants.

“The elephant is Kenya’s flagship species and so its distribution and condition is a good indicator of the status of our wildlife,” said KWS director Julius Kipng’erich. The census officials traced 68 elephant carcasses, 64 of which had earlier been seen by the KWS officials on routine security operations.

Newcastle denied victory by late Boro equalizer

LONDON, 4 Feb — Michael Owen scored Newcastle United's first goal since the return of Kevin Keegan as manager on Sunday but they could still only draw 1-1 at home with north-east rivals Middlesbrough.

The England striker rose high to head Newcastle in front from Emre's free kick just before the hour of a lively contest at St James' Park but Boro got a deserved equalizer with less than five minutes to go through Robert Huth's looping header.

The result leaves Newcastle only seven points above the Premier League relegation zone in 12th place with tough matches against Aston Villa and Manchester United next up. Middlesbrough, in 13th, are five points above the bottom three.

Second from bottom Fulham gave their survival hopes a boost with a 2-1 victory at home to Villa after Aaron Hughes had gifted the visitors the lead with an own goal. Simon Davies equalized when he flicked in a Jimmy Bullard free kick and Bullard then sealed a first victory for new manager Roy Hodgson with a superb late free kick.

Fulham have 19 points but are only three points behind Reading who are immediately above the drop zone. Defeat cost Villa the chance to move above Reading with the chance to move above Manchester United from 37 points to 38.

Boro squandered several chances in the second half notably through Gary O'Neil. In stoppage time they also had a goal disallowed when Jeremie Aliadiere smashed in a rebound after Stewart Downing's free kick came back off the post.

Tenth day of cold weather warning in HK sets record

Hong Kong, 4 Feb — A cold weather warning issued by the Hong Kong Observatory was in force for a record-breaking tenth day on Saturday, prompting authorities to open shelters and call for visits to elders living alone.

“The cold weather warning is now in force,” the observatory said in a special dispatch Saturday morning, while scientific officers from the observatory appeared at intervals on radio and TV stations to remind the public to keep warm.

The cold weather warning, issued by the observatory on 24 January, has since been in force, topping the previous record of 204 hours in a row in January, 2004.

Minimum temperatures in Hong Kong’s downtown area are occasionally below 10 degrees Celsius but such cold weather for over 10 days in a row was rarely seen in the past two or three decades, a scientific officer from the observatory said on Saturday.

Hong Kong Observatory started issuing cold weather warnings in 1999, based on downtown minimum temperatures below 12 degrees as well as humidity and wind force, said Ma Wai-man, a senior scientific officer at the Hong Kong Observatory.

Snowing weather injures dozens in Japan

Tokyo, 4 Feb — Heavy snow fell in several prefectures on the Pacific side of central and eastern Japan since Sunday morning, injuring at least 45 people in the Tokyo and the nearby Chiba prefecture, according to local firefighters.

The snow which lasted for the whole day also led to cancellation of flights, close of highways and delay of trains in the wide areas.

According to the Japan Meteorological Agency, three centimetres of snow had accumulated in central Tokyo, five centimetres in Yokohama, and 25 centimetres in Yamashita Prefecture’s Kawaguchioka city.

The snow was brought by a low-pressure system moved east-northeast in southern waters.

Tokyo’s Haneda Airport said dozens of flights in and out have been cancelled, while the East Japan Railway Co said operations of at least four of its lines were affected by the snow.

INSIDE

“However, in the Parliamentary Democracy period, those criminals became members of the parliament. But, it was very ungrateful of them to fail to do anything for development of our village. When they were powerful in our region, we local people had to do what they asked us, we had to go where they sent us, and we had to give them what they demanded us. But, they had no dealings with us. My father felt very bitter about that.”
