At least 13 dead as Egypt microbus falls into canal

The cause of the accident was not immediately apparent, they said.

At least 29 people died in a pile-up earlier this month on a highway outside the Egyptian capital. MNA/Reuters

Obama, Clinton clash in heated US debate

CLEVELAND, 27 Feb—Democrats Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton clashed sharply in a high-stakes one-on-one debate on Tuesday, accusing each other of falsely portraying their stances on health care, trade and other issues.

Clinton, who needs to win next week in Ohio and Texas to keep her presidential campaign alive after Obama’s streak of 11 straight victories in nominating contests, went on the attack early in the debate at Cleveland State University in Ohio.

Obama fired back repeatedly in a series of sometimes heated but controlled exchanges.

The debate, the last before next Tuesday’s contests, was sharper in tone than last week’s encounter in Texas, but far less personal and angry than a debate last month in South Carolina.

Clinton kept up her recent criticism of Obama campaign literature sent to Ohio voters that she said mischaracterized her health care proposal, which includes mandates requiring Americans to purchase health insurance.

“We should have a good debate that uses accurate information, not false, misleading and discredited information, especially on something as important as whether or not we will achieve quality, affordable health care for everyone,” the New York Senator said.

IMF predicts economic slowdown for Canada

OTTAWA, 27 Feb—Canada’s economic growth will slow down to 1.8 per cent in 2008, challenged by a slump in the United States, the high dollar and more moderate domestic demand, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) said Monday.

The agency had projected a growth rate of 2.3 per cent in its forecast last year, Canadian Press reported.

The IMF report said the Canadian economy is unlikely to decouple from the US because the US receives 75 per cent of Canada’s exports. It warned that Canada could fall into a deep recession if the American economy contracts, the US dollar plummets and commodity prices fall.

In that scenario, Canada’s economy could shrink by 3.3 per cent this year and 3.8 per cent in 2009 before recovering to barely above zero in 2010, the agency said.

Myanmar pursuing goal of democracy with transparency and time frame

U Pyay Kyaw

The Union of Myanmar is an independent and sovereign nation. In the past, the country was subjugated for 123 years by the British, and during the period, the colonizer exploited and unjustly took out of the nation the precious stones such as gold, silver, diamond, jade, ruby and sapphire including natural resources, agricultural produce and royal gems. Like Myanmar, many other world countries fell under the colonial rule of the western industrialized countries such as the Britain, France, Belgium, the Dutch, Spain, Portugal and the US. They also exploited all the natural resources of the colonies.

At that time, the dictionaries in circulation in the colonialist countries did not carry some words such as freedom, liberty, independence, democracy, human rights, non-aggression and non-interference. Unluckily in the past, now they are repeatedly shouting the expressions of freedom, human rights, and democracy. At the same time, they are invading, imposing economic sanctions against, and interfering in the internal affairs of former colonies that are now engaged in national reconstruction tasks. They are none other than hypocrites.

In the course of history, Myanmar people had led a peaceful life, sharing joys and sorrows. Myanmar came under acts of aggressions of the colonialists in 1824, and since then, the people had fought back the colonizers in unity. The regaining of the State’s territory and sovereignty (independence) cost a large number of lives and limbs of the people. Since 4 January 1948 on which the nation regained independence, the people had fallen victims to internal armed conflicts that occurred at the instigation of the colonialists and due to the sectarianism.

It was known to the international community that the Union was on the edge of an abyss, and the nation almost lost independence and encountered bloodshed four times—from 1948 to 1950, from 1958 to 1960, in the early 1962, and in 1988, and thus the people and the Tatmadaw had to defend the Union in collaboration.

Anyhow, peace has been restored in Myanmar since 1989. Seventeen national race armed groups returned to the legal fold in consideration of the public interests. Myanmar enjoyed the taste of development at the unprecedented level from 1988 to 2008. With community peace and stability of the State, the government is now implementing the fourth step of the road map.

In 1992, the government held discussions with the ten legal political parties (including NLD) and reached an agreement to hold the National Convention in order to lay down fundamental principles for a constitution. In 1990, Win Sein and some NLD member MPs fled to the camp of armed insurgents in border areas and illegally formed a so-called parallel government.

Thus, NLD Chairman U Aung Shwe removed Daw Suu Kyi’s cousin expatriate Sein Win and NLD member accomplices, and U Tin Oo and Daw Suu Kyi who violated the law and incited riots, as member of the NLD headquarters. In addition, he sent a letter with his signature to the Multi-party Democracy General Election Commission, requesting that the commission remove them as representatives-elect.

Five NLD HQ members and nearly 100 NLD representatives led by U Aung Shwe had attended the National Convention since 1993, implying that NLD accepted the concept that a State constitution was essential for the nation.

It is common knowledge that the State Constitution Drafting Committee under the leadership of General Aung San drew the 1947 constitution in haste. At that time, the nation was still under the rule of the British government. Under the coercion and pressure of some renegades, the media under the influence of the colonialists and due to the sectarianism, the newspapers carried 15 chapters or principles of the constitution enumerating some principles on the rights to secede from the Union 10 years after independence.

In the early March 1962, the ruling Pa-Hta-Sa (Union) government was not in a position at all to control the federal movement designed to secede from the Union and then join the South-East Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) led by the US. In consequence, the government could no longer practise the 1947 constitution.

In 1974, a new constitution was introduced on the basis of Socialism. Nonetheless, in the pragmatic world, the nation practising Socialist Constitution Law did not achieve much economic growth due to various reasons. Again the 1974 constitution was abrogated in 1988, resulting from the objection in the mass protests.

A five-warship fleet including an aircraft carrier of a big country intruded into the Myanmar’s waters, prompting the Tatmadaw to take up State responsibilities. The Union was witnessing general deterioration, stemming from inhumane killings of Myanmar people by same compatriots, burning down public property, looting of shops and government warehouses, and dying each other for power. So, the people and the Tatmadaw again had to save the Union.

The process of drawing an enduring constitution was carried out, taking lessons from defects and loopholes of the 1947 constitution and the 1974 constitution.

The National Convention was attended by more than 1000 representatives from ten legal political parties, representatives of representatives-elect, independent representatives-elect, representatives of national races from various townships, representatives of peasants, workers, intellectuals and intelligentsia and State service personnel, legal experts and representatives from national race peace groups.

Proposal papers of respective delegate groups, collections of the panel of chairmen of the National Convention plenary sessions, clarifications of the National Convention Convening Commission, and fundamental principles and detailed basic principles adopted with the approval of the plenary sessions received media coverage.

Proposal papers submitted to and discussions held at the National Convention, and principles of the chapters were collected into a book after the National Convention was completed on 3 September 2007. And copies were distributed at the reasonable prices. Nonetheless, renegades, the media under the influence of the colonialists, and internal traitorous national axe-handles are saying that the discussions held and principles adopted at the National Convention are incomprehensible lacking transparency. I would like to urge them to find them up in the old newspapers.

The newspapers carried 15 chapters or principles for 15 chapters to be included in the constitution as follows:

Chapter (1) The State
Chapter (2) The State Structure
Chapter (3) The Head of State
Chapter (4) Legislature
Chapter (5) Executive
Chapter (6) Judiciary
Chapter (7) The Tatmadaw
Chapter (8) Citizens, Fundamental Principles and Responsibilities of Citizens
Chapter (9) Election
Chapter (10) Political Parties
Chapter (11) Provisions on State of Emergency
Chapter (12) Amendment of the Constitution
Chapter (13) State Flag, State Seal, National Anthem and the Capital
Chapter (14) Transitory Provisions
Chapter (15) General Provisions

During the period when Daw Suu Kyi and U Tin Oo were placed under restrictions, U Aung Shwe and NLD central executive committee attended the meeting to coordinate for holding the National Convention and agreed to the resolutions. Nearly 90 (See page 11)

On 14 May 2004, VOA and BBC broadcast a news story that NLD would not attend the National Convention. Following the news aired by VOA, U Tin Oo went to新加坡 to decide whether or not it would attend the Convention again. NLD executive committee with Daw Suu Kyi and other NLD representatives led by U Aung Shwe attended the National Convention till it laid down the basic principles for Formation of Legislature, Chapter (3) “The detailed basic principles for The Head of State”, Chapter (4) “The detailed basic principles for Formation of Legislature”, Chapter (5) “The detailed basic principles for Formation of Executive”, and Chapter (6) “The detailed basic principles for Formation of Judiciary”. The NLD representatives including U Aung Shwe and representatives of Shan NLD led by U Khun Tun Oo attended the National Convention in May 2004. Then, expatriates and some western radio stations such as BBC, VOA and RFA claimed that the National Convention would not be meaningful unless NLD attended it. NLD changed its mind so easily. In July 1995, restrictions placed on Daw Suu Kyi were lifted. Since then, the 86 NLD representatives led by U Aung Shwe and 54 representatives of Shan NLD led by U Khun Tun Oo attended the National Convention for the second time. Had NLD not left the convention and continued to attend it in 1995, Hluttaw would have gone through its term two times by now. I wonder whether it was NLD’s own decision that it would not attend the National Convention in May 2004. Then, expatriates and some western radio stations such as BBC, VOA and RFA claimed that the convention would not be meaningful unless NLD attended it. NLD changed its mind so easily. From 2004 to 2007, those who were anxious to disrupt the progress of the National Convention used media and explosives, and agitated the people, and then tried to use the UN. Whatever it may be, the entire national people are determined to continue the State’s seven-step Road Map. The people expressed their support for the National Convention by holding mass rallies throughout the nation.

An accusation said that the tasks for emergence of a new constitution were not transparent. They will never realize the tasks so long as they are turning a blind eye to them. Now, the entire Myanmar people are accustomed to such accusations. Another comment said that the Myanmar government said it was working for transition to democracy, but there was no time frame. The National Convention was completed on 3 September 2007, and before long a 54-member commission for drafting the State constitution was formed. The 54 members included legal experts from states and divisions, professors of various fields, and those who are well-versed in the political, economic and administrative affairs. On 3 December 2007, the commission launched the drafting of the State constitution based on the principles the National Convention had adopted. On 19 February 2008, the commission plenary session adopted the draft and all the commission members signed the draft on 20 February. On 9 February 2008, the State Peace and Development Council released Announcement No 1/2008 and said that the draft will be approved through a referendum in May 2008. The announcement was aired on TV and radio and stated in the newspapers, and journals and it was posted on the Internet. The US President Bush is showing total disregard for the demand of the US citizens and US Congress to present a time frame of pushing back the US troops. Then, why did he demand a time frame in the Myanmar affairs? I have heard that he invited the UN Secretary-General and put pressure on him to deal with the Myanmar issue. Asia News Channel news said that the US government said that Myanmar would have to re-draw the constitution. In this regard, I have to remind it that Myanmar people solely have the right to draw and practise the constitution of the nation.

Representatives of various national races and the people participated in the process of holding the National Convention and drawing the State Constitution, and the entire people will participate in the holding of referendum, approving the draft and implementing the democratic transition processes. So, public participation will make history of the nation. I have no spare time to pay attention to the words of those negative attitude in the Myanmar’s internal affairs. Myanmar people will continue to serve the interests of the nation with the strength of the national forces.

Iran says new IAEA report is 90% in its favour

TEHERAN, 27 Feb—A senior Iranian nuclear official has said that recent report by International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) Director General Mohamed ElBaradei on Iran’s nuclear programme is 90 per cent in favour of Iran, the United Nations and IAEA news agency reported on Monday.

“The agency head tried to provide a moderate report despite existing pressures,” Gholamreza Aghazadeh, head of Iran’s Atomic Energy Organization was quoted as saying Sunday evening.

He added that the remaining 10 per cent of the report was still related to some allegations raised against Iran.

He referred to the six cases as the plutonium tests, issues of Iran P1 and P2 centrifuges, the metal uranium documents, contamination in a technical university in Tehran, the Polonium 210 and Gachin contamination in A Biao’s house, the police did not disclose which country he was from. China gene experts search for answers on diabetes

SHENZHEN, (China), 25 Feb — Chinese scientists are trying to find out which errant genes are responsible for diabetes and certain forms of cancer that have long plagued Chinese populations, a geneticist said.

Rising affluence, richer diets and a sedentary lifestyle have led to a rise in cases of diabetes in China in recent decades, while cancers of the oesophagus, lungs, breast, stomach and colon have plagued Chinese people for a much longer time. The partly state-funded Beijing Genomics Institute (BGI), which completed the mapping out of the first Chinese human genome in 2007, is trying to figure out which genes may be responsible for these chronic and even terminal illnesses.

“We are doing disease gene mapping, to find causal (gene) variants for certain diseases in Chinese populations,” said Gao Yang, vice general manager of BGI’s Shenzhen branch, which was mainly responsible for the sequencing of the first Chinese genome.

“We are most interested in diabetes and five types of cancer.” BGI is collaborating with Chinese hospitals on the cancer project and foreign institutions on diabetes.— MNA/Reuters

Chile considers bids from five countries to build satellite

SANTIAGO, 26 Feb — The Chilean Government is considering bids from seven companies in five nations to build a military satellite to enhance its air force strength, the Defence Ministry said Sunday.

The nations involved in the bidding process are France, Canada, India, Russia and South Korea. Companies from Ukraine and the United States withdrew at the last minute.

The military satellite must have a five-year life, and could be put to use in research of the country’s natural resources, oceans, rivers, forests and snowy regions.

Chilean President Michelle Bachelet had cancelled a bid set up by the previous government and ordered a new one amid criticism of the first process.

The first bid, conducted in 2005, gave the contract to French defence company EADS’s Earth Observation Satellite System but the Chilean Government refused to buy it in July 2006.

Tests of new “AIDS” gel show promise for women

WASHINGTON, 26 Feb — A gel that uses a popular HIV drug to protect women from the AIDS virus is safe and acceptable to women, although it is too early to know if it actually prevents infection, researchers reported on Monday.

The gel uses the drug tenofovir, sold under the name Viread by Gilead Sciences Inc.

The study, released at a meeting of AIDS researchers in India, is a welcome piece of good news for the struggling field of microbicides. It involved 200 sexually active HIV-negative women. That’s a key message in our findings,” said Dr. Craig Hoesley of the University of Alabama at Birmingham. “This sets the stage for larger studies to see if tenofovir can prevent HIV infection.”

Microbicides are products, such as gels or creams, that can be applied vaginally or anally to prevent transmission of the human immunodeficiency virus that causes AIDS.

Two other potential microbicides have made women more likely to become infected — a spermicide called nonoxynol-9 and a product called Ushercell, made by Toronto, Canada-based Polydex Pharmaceuticals.

The tenofovir product appears to be safe, said the research team, funded by the National Institutes of Health, found. It is the first potential microbicide to use a licensed AIDS drug.

It was a phase II clinical trial designed to show safety, not that it was effective.

“It is a critical time for all of us engaged in HIV prevention, and I truly believe we are turning a corner,” said Sharon Hillier of the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, who led the study.— MNA/Reuters

Three Asian airports top world for service

GENEVA, 27 Feb — South Korea’s Incheon, Malaysia’s Kuala Lumpur International and Singapore’s Changi are the world’s top three airports for passenger service, according to results of a survey released on Monday by the industry body ACI.

It was the third year in a row that Asian airport captured the first three positions in the global league table. Passengers are asked to assess factors like cleanliness, comfort of waiting areas and ease of check-in.

In Europe the top spot went to Porto in Portugal, in North America to Dallas-Fort Worth, in Africa to Johannesburg, in Latin America to Ecuador’s Guayaquil, and in the Middle East to Israel’s Tel Aviv, ACI said.

A total of 90 airports, and 200,000 passengers— took part in the survey conducted during 2007. said ACI, the Airports Council International which groups 580 members operating 1,647 airports in 175 countries.

Incheon also headed the list in the 2006 survey, followed by Hong Kong, Kuala Lumpur and Changi on level pegging, and Dallas-Fort Worth, Fourth and fifth in the latest survey were Hong Kong and Japan’s Nagoya, according to ACI.

Guayaquil, which serves Ecuador’s Pacific coast business capital and was once a traveller’s nightmare, has recently undergone a total makeover. Currently, like the European leader Porto, it processes under five million passengers a year.

By contrast, Incheon and Changi see between 25 million and 40 million travellers pass through, and Hong Kong and Dallas-Fort Worth handle more than 40 million. Kuala Lumpur processes between 15 million and 20 million.

Massive power outage hits millions in Florida

MIAMI, 27 Feb — A massive power outage struck parts of Florida on Tuesday, knocking out electricity to millions of people, snarling traffic at intersections and trapping residents in elevators. Some sort of “dis-turbance” in the power grid forced the Turkey Point nuclear plant in south Florida to go into an emergency shutdown, said a spokeswoman for FPL Group Inc., the main energy provider in the area.

Other power companies were also affected as the outage spread sporadically but extensively up the Florida Peninsula as far north as Tampa on the Gulf of Mexico. Officials called it a domino chain of blackouts.

A spokesman for Progress Energy’s Florida utility said its clients were affected in the central part of the state. Flight's at Miami international airport were only marginally affected.
