

The estimated number of annual respondents: The total number of respondents under part 50 that could potentially be subject to these requirements is 104 reactor licensees and some unknown, but likely small number for applicants. However, the actual number is expected to be considerably smaller. For purposes of this notice, the number assumed is 4 licensees.

8. An estimate of the total number of hours needed annually to complete the requirement or request: 4,126 hours (an increase in 1,630 hours for reporting; and an increase of 2,496 hours for recordkeeping, or 1,032 hours per licensee). This estimate includes an annualized one-time burden of 5,600 hours for implementation of the rule through procedures and training of personnel, NRC approval of implementation, and conducting and documenting categorization reviews. The burden depends upon factors such as current development of the probabilistic risk assessment and categorization procedures, existing plant procedures, and the scope and implementation schedule for revised rule requirements.

9. An indication of whether section 3507(d), Pub. L. 104-13 applies: Applicable.

10. Abstract: The NRC is revising its requirements to permit power reactor licensees and applicants for licenses to implement an alternative regulatory framework with respect to "special treatment," that is, those requirements that provide increased assurance (beyond normal industrial practices) that SSCs perform their design basis functions. Under this framework, licensees or applicants, using a risk-informed process for categorizing SSCs according to their safety-significance, can remove SSCs of low safety-significance from the scope of certain identified special treatment requirements.

Submit, by June 11, 2003, comments that address the following questions:

1. Is the proposed collection of information necessary for the NRC to properly perform its functions? Does the information have practical utility?
2. Is the burden estimate accurate?
3. Is there a way to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected?
4. How can the burden of the information collection be minimized, including the use of automated collection techniques or other forms of information technology?
