Proposed Project: Impact of Accreditation on BPHC-Supported Community Health Centers—NEW

The Bureau of Primary Health Care (BPHC) has contracted with the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO) for a period of three years from 2002 to 2005 to conduct comprehensive evaluations for selected BPHC-supported health centers that will encompass both a full Joint Commission accreditation survey and a review of specified governmental requirements relative to the Primary Care Effectiveness Review. Incorporated into this contract, is a research study that will examine the impact of JCAHO accreditation on BPHC-supported health centers. The reasons for conducting this study are twofold. First, in a March 2000 report, the GAO recommended to HRSA that they determine the cost effectiveness of Joint Commission accreditation and its ability to improve quality and competitiveness in community health centers (GAO/HEHS-00-39 community health centers). HRSA believes that this study will build on a 2002 report by Lewin and Associates that examined the effectiveness of accreditation on a small number of health centers. Second, although considerable anecdotal information is available regarding changes that health centers have made to prepare for or maintain accreditation, this study is designed to provide a detailed examination of the number and type of activities that health centers are engaged in relative to quality of care and patient safety subsequent to becoming accredited.

This study is a descriptive assessment of the impact of accreditation on health centers relative to changes in their approach to quality of care and patient safety. It will assess the impact in a sample of Joint Commission accredited community health centers that include migrant health centers, school based health centers, health centers for the homeless and public housing health centers. This study aims to address two key questions: (a) What do health centers do differently as a result of preparing for and maintaining accreditation? and (b) How has accreditation strengthened health centers' approach to quality, patient safety and performance improvement? The assessment will be conducted by administering two mailed questionnaires to a sample of community health centers.
