Author's Preface

Preface

In the year 1775, corresponding to the Tamil calendar year of manmatha, Śrī Muddusvāmi Dīkṣitar incarnated in the very holy town of Tiruvārūr, and for about 60 years till the year 1835, about 100 years from now, corresponding to the Tamil calendar year of manmatha, he reigned as the very embodiment of divine music.

Even before the age of 16, Śrī Dīkṣitar attained proficiency in the vēda, āgama, kāvya, nāṭaka, alaṅkāra , jyōsya, and other *śāstra*s . Under the tutelage of his father Śrī Rāmasvāmi Dīkṣitar, who was a titan in the world of music, he mastered Vēṅkaṭamakhi's treatise, the 'caturdaṇḍī prakāśikā'. Thus, acquiring knowledge, wisdom and great piousness, Śrī Dīkṣitar was initiated to the Śrīvidyā mahāmantra by Śrī Cidambaranātha Yōgi. He traveled with him to Kāśi, stayed there for five years, and by incantation of the mantra, he acquired the benign blessings of the Divine mother.

Upon his return, he reached the pilgrim town of Tiruttaṇi, and in the sanctum of the presiding deity there, Śrī Dīkṣitar started reciting the śrī subrahmaṇya pañcadaśākṣari. Lord Subrahmaṇya appeared before him there, and by putting rock candy and sugar in mouth, blessed him and disappeared. Immediately, Śrī Dīkṣitar composed "śrīnāthādi guruguhō" in māyāmāḷavagauḷa rāga, there. From then on, he started composing a number of masterpieces on Lord Subrahmaṇya and other deities, each one brimming with devotion and lyrical excellence.

Subsequently, Śrī Dīkṣitar moved to Tiruvārūr and continued to compose profusely. He traveled to Eṭṭayāpuram to attend the second wedding of his younger brother Śrī Bālasvāmi Dīkṣitar. On the way, he saw the parched and rain-starved crops, and was moved by the sight. To seek the divine intervention of the compassionate amṛtēśvari, he immediately composed "ānandāmṛtākarṣiṇi"in rāga amṛtavarṣiṇi, and even as he was teaching it to his disciple, the rain clouds appeared in the sky, and started raining in torrents. After attending his brother's wedding at Eṭṭayāpuram, and staying there for some time, in the year 1835, corresponding to the Tamil calendar year of manmatha, month of aippaśi and kṛṣṇa pakṣa caturdaśi day, he attained the feet of Lord Subrahmaṇya.

It is no wonder that every single composition of this great and blessed soul brims with devotion, meaning, and melody, and is musically embellished with *gamaka*s and adornments so much and it shines bright in all the prescribed rhythmic gaits, including viḷaṁba (slow), madhya (medium) and druta (fast).

It has been my very firm belief that if every vidvān and student played or performed these compositions after fully absorbing and appreciating the nuances of rāga bhāva (richness of melody), gamaka (embellishments and adornments) and kālapramāṇa (rhythmic gait) which lie buried in these great treasures, I am sure that the listeners would then be able to savor and enjoy the ambrosia of Śrī Dīkṣitar's music.

It is indeed very unfortunate that these lyrically and musically rich compositions have not been available to the public, now. One reason has been that the *vidvān*s (artistes) belonging to śiṣya paraṁpara (lineage of disciples) of Śrī Dīkṣitar have passed away. The second reason for this has been that there has been no written Tamil publication duly notated for both lyric and music, that could be easily understood by people in Tamil Nadu.

For the aforesaid reasons, and to enable easy learning of Śrī Dīkṣitar's compositions, which had been my burning desire, I have now ventured to publish them. I have had the good fortune of learning the compositions of Śrī Dīkṣitar from the revered Sāttanūr Pañcanada Iyer, who in turn had meticulously learnt them from the respected Tiruvārūr Śrī Tambiyappan Piḷḷai, the direct disciple of Śrī Dīkṣitar. Under Śrī Pañcanada Iyer's tutelage, I had learnt about 200 compositions of Śrī Dīkṣitar, and thoroughly notated them for rāga (melody), tāḷa (rhythm), and gamaka (adornments), under his supervision, which I have now endeavored to publish. I seek to publish them all in 4 parts, each with 50 compositions each and the present publication is the first part.

The compositions herein have been published in Tamil duly notated for lyric, melody, rhythm and musical adornments, so that they may be easily learnt directly from there, by *vidvān*s on their own, and by students of music, with the assistance of able teachers.

When I had collated all these compositions and was not sure as to how to publish them, the respected, Śrī T. L. Veṅkaṭarāma Iyer, Advocate in Madras, came forward to assist me. His passion and commitment to popularize Dīkṣitar's compositions is very well known. It is indeed extremely appropriate therefore that this book is published under his very competent guidance and supervision.

Again, in publishing this book, I am greatly indebted for the unforgettable contribution of Dr. V. Rāghavan, who took the responsibility as his very own, and personally undertook several tasks including arranging for printing and other activities, till the very end.

Ever since I initiated the publication of this book, my younger son Cirañjīvi Śivasubrahmaṇian had been extremely helpful, committed and co-operative in assisting me in this endeavor of mine. I pray to invoke the Grace of Lord Śivaṣaṇmukhanātha to bestow knowledge, wealth and long life to him.

Notations

Detailed Notes

The *gamaka*s printed as small and large fonts*, the way in which they have to be intoned, and the kālapramāṇa associated with the tāḷa as notated in the compositions as found in this book, are detailed below.

Details of Gamakas

Notation Excerpt: S̃̃ o S R S R S R

Ṣaḍja has to be intoned at its svarasthāna and also oscillated to show a trace of ṛṣabha. In general, this notation means that the svara needs to be intoned by also showing the neighboring svarasthāna by way of oscillation.

Notation Excerpt: s n n s

Niṣāda has to be intoned with a trace of ṣaḍja and ṣaḍja to be intoned with a trace of niṣāda, respectively via soḍukkal. That is, the notation implies that the svara needs to be intoned with a trace of the next/adjacent svarasthāna as marked with a postscript or a subscript, and then descend back to the svara via soḍukkal, and vice versa.

Notation Excerpt: S /G \R /M

Every higher svara needs to be ascended to, from a lower svara by gliding up, marked by "/" and every lower svara needs to be descended to, from a higher svara by gliding down, marked by "\".

Notation Excerpt: ṗ ḍ ṇ s r g m p d n ṡ ṙ ġ ṁ

*Svara*s of the mandra sthāyi are notated with a dot below them, and those of the tāra sthāyi are notated with a dot above them. Those in the madhya sthāyi do not have such adornment. For every composition, the ārōhaṇa and the avarōhaṇa of the rāga has been given. The svara notation in normal font, signify śuddha ṛṣabha, sādhāraṇa gāndhāra, śuddha madhyama, śuddha dhaivata, and kaiśiki niṣāda, as applicable. Similarly, *svara*s notated in bold font denote catuśruti ṛṣabha, antara gāndhāra, prati madhyama, cathuśruti dhaivatha, and kākali niṣāda, as applicable. In the lyrics, those in smaller fonts need to be rendered in the 4th degree of speed. For some *svara*s in regular/normal font size (main svara), you may find *svara*s notated in smaller font size (poḍi svara) preceding them. While intoning the main svara, the trace of the preceding podisvara/gracenote needs to be shown/intoned. The poḍi svaras notes by themselves do not have any tāḷa or sthāna therein, in the composition.

*In this English Edition, we employ small italics (for small), upright roman/bold (for large) fonts, respectively.

Biographies

Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai

Śēṣapiḷḷai migrated from Kalyāṇacōḷapuram near Māyavaram to Tiruppāṁburam. He was well-versed in the *āgama*s, and was a vaiṇika. His son, Kuzhandaivēl Piḷḷai played the Sarinda. Kuzhandaivēl Piḷḷai's wife was Vēlamuttammāḷ. Their sons, Subbarāyan and Svāmināthan, initially learnt vīṇa and music from their father, and then took advanced lessons from Kūraināḍu Rāmasvāmi, the student of Muttusvāmi Dīkṣitar. Svāmināṭha Piḷḷai began to learn Nāgasvaram after hearing the music of the likes of Tirumaṅgaḷakkuḍi Muttuvīrusvāmi Piḷḷai. His brother, Subbarāya Piḷḷai, learnt the Tavil. Tiruvādutturai ādhīnakartā, Mēlagaram Subrahmaṇya Dēśikar, pleased by his music, built him a house in Tiruvīzhimizhalai, and moved them from Tiruppāmburam to Tiruvīzhimizhalai. He also introduced Tiriśirapuram Mahāvidvān Mīnākṣi Sundaram Piḷḷai to him.

Svāmināṭha Piḷḷai had two wives, the elder one was Paripūrṇattammāḷ of Karcanguḍi. They had four sons: Naṭarājasundaram, Sivasubrahmaṇyam, Ayyan and Muttvēlappan. Naṭarājasundaram was born on 15th December, 1869. He, and his brother Sivasubrahmaṇyam, were interested in music from their early years, and were put under the tutelage of Iñjikkuḍi Kumārappiḷḷai. After learning the instrument, their father wanted them to increase their kīrtana repertoire, and located Umayāḷpuram Durasvāmi Iyer and Sāttanūr Pañcanada Iyer — who were the repositories of Tyāgarāja and Dīkṣitar's compositions, respectively, and expressed his desire. Svāmināṭha Piḷḷai brought these two musicians to his town, and made his sons learn under them.

Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai and Sivasubrahmaṇya Piḷḷai started the tradition of nāgasvaram rendering as a duet. It was said that Rāmanāthapuram Śrīnivāsa Iyeṅgar and Śarabha Śāstri were fond of their music. Rāmanāthapuram Śrīnivāsa Iyeṅgār insisted on their music wherever his concert was arranged. Śarabha Śāstry is also said to have shown his *harikathā nirūpaṇam*s to Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai to seek his opinions on them. The *tavil vidvān*s who accompanied them include: Śrī Vāñchiyam Gōvinda Piḷḷai, Mannārguḍi Palluppakkiri Piḷḷai, Ammāppeṭṭai Pakkiri Piḷḷai, and Vazhuvūr Muttuvīru Piḷḷai.

Among *nāgasvara vidwan*s, it was the more popular approach to learn musical compositions as *svara*s and ignore the role of sāhitya, as it was not applicable to an instrument. However the composition will shine only if the sāhitya elements are incorporated with the necessary blowing techniques such as a–kāram and tuttukāram at the appropriate places. Naṭarājasundaram and his brother were said to have achieved fame in playing compositions on the nāgasvaram keeping in mind the sāhitya bhāva as well.

Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai constructed a Vināyaka Temple near the house he resided in Tiruvīzhimizhalai and performed the Kuṁbhābhiṣēkam in the year 1929. During the one week festivities, some of the musical events that took place include performances by Kāraikkuḍi Subbarāmayyar and Sāṁbaśiva Iyer, Nayinā Piḷḷai, Ariyakkuḍi , Bṛndā and Muktā , the harikathā kālakṣēpam of C. Sarasvati Bāi, the nāgasvaram concerts of Perambalūr Aṅgappa Piḷḷai, Madurai Ponnusvāmi Piḷḷai and Tiruviḍaimarudūr Vīrusvāmi Piḷḷai .

Naṭarājasundaram married Śivakāmi ammāḷ, the daughter of Dīpambalpuram Nallatambi Piḷḷai. They had three sons and five daughters. Among them are:— the famous flautist Svāmināṭha Piḷḷai, Sōmasundaram Piḷḷai who served as the principal of the Pazhani temple Nāgasvaram school, and Śivasubrahmaṇya Piḷḷai, a lecturer in Aṇṇāmalai University.

Tirupāmburam Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai, the famed repository of Dīkṣitar compositions, and known for his traditional Nāgasvaram playing techniques, passed away on November 16, 1938.

Sāttanūr Pañcanada Iyer

Introduction

Sāttanūr Pañcanada Iyer belonged to the śiṣya paraṁpara of Muddusvāmi Dīkṣitar, and is the guru of the some of the greatest musicians of yesteryears, including Vīṇa Dhanammāḷ, Tiruppāmburam Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai, and Tirukkōḍikāval Kṙṣṇa Iyer. He played a major role in teaching and propagating the *kṙti*s of Dīkṣitar in the Tañjāvūr district, and later at Madras.

His Life and Times

Sāttanūr is a small sleepy village in the Cauvery delta in Tañjāvūr District, about 10 miles from Kumbakōṇam. Pañcanada Iyer hailed from this place. Nothing is known as to his antecedents, except that he hailed from a smārta Brāhmin family. Based on historical evidence, his life time can be mapped approximately as 1830–1902. Dr. V. Raghavan and Justice T L Venkatarama Iyer, in their accounts, state that Pañcanada Iyer was one of the youngest disciples of Muddusvāmi Dīkṣitar himself; however, based on the preface of the "Dīkṣita Kīrtana Prakāśikai", it is clear that Pañcanada Iyer was the śiṣya of Tiruvārūr Śuddhamaddaḷam Tambiyappan Piḷḷai (1785 – 1849), and not of Dīkṣitar himself. After his tutelage under Tambiappan Piḷḷai, Pañju Iyer is said to have returned back to Sāttanūr. This was probably when he taught Tirukkōḍikāval Kṙṣṇa Iyer (maternal uncle of Semmanguḍi Śrīnivāsa Iyer) and Tiruppāmburam Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai. Pañju Iyer shared the same catholic outlook as that of his parama guru, Śrī Dīkṣitar. He taught the two brothers about 200 *kṙti*s of Śrī Dīkṣitar. Not only did he teach them, but also made them write it down with the svara/gamaka notation, which he personally checked and verified.

Pañju Iyer seems to have moved to Madras where he was patronized by the city's music lovers. A number of contemporaries of Pañju Iyer, especially those of the Dīkṣitar paraṁpara, such as Kēkkarai Muthu Iyer, for long a resident of Tiruvārūr, migrated to Madras. Vīṇa Dhanammāḷ started learning under Pañju Iyer during this period. A great many of Dīkṣitar compositions such as "vīṇāpustaka dhāriṇīm", in vēgavāhini, were taught to Dhanammāḷ, who went on to make them their very own. Dhanammāḷ also seems to have learnt Dīkṣitar compositions from Kēkkarai Muthu Iyer as well, especially the Śaṅkarābharaṇam composition "akṣayaliṅga vibhō". Apart from her, another musician of merit, Saidāpet Tirumalācār also learnt from Pañju Iyer at Madras.

While being famous for his authentic renderings of Dīkṣitar's compositions, Pañju Iyer seems to have been a vāggēyakāra in his own right as well. We do not have any record of these compositions he had composed except, for the account of Raṅgarāmānuja Iyeṅgār.

Pañju Iyer's Music

The Preface by Tiruppāmburam Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai, dated 10th February, 1936, is apparently the earliest written publication referring to Pañcanada Iyer. This apart, we have accounts of Pañju Iyer from Śūlamaṅgalam Vaidyanātha Bhāgavatar (1866–1943), the famous harikathā exponent, Vīṇa Dhanammāḷ, and the Tamizh tāttā, U Ve. Svāmināṭha Iyer (1855-1942).

Sāttanūr Pañcanada Iyer was also called as Sāttanūr Pañju Iyer. He was one of the greatest exponents of Dīkṣitar *kṙti*s during the latter part of the 19th century, who took great pains to popularize Dīkṣitar's compositions. Pañju Iyer possessed a powerful voice, an unnerving svara jñāna and the ability to correctly and impressively articulate sāhitya. And above all, Pañju Iyer was a great exponent of tānam, and he was referred with awe as "madhyamakāla Pañju Iyer".

Tiṭṭē Kṙṣṇa Iyeṅgār, in his 1964 Music Academy lecture, alludes to the six primary and eight secondary types of tānam, and credits Pañju Iyer as the foremost vocalist in this field in rendering all of them. Apart from tāna, and madhyama kāla rendition. Pañju Iyer was famous for his neraval expertise. Saṅgīta Kalānidhi Muḍikoṇḍān Vēṅkaṭarāma Iyer, in his 1956 Music Academy lecture demonstration on neraval, mentions that Pañju Iyer was the foremost in neraval in all the three speeds.

Pañju Iyer's Musical Legacy

By far, the single biggest legacy that Pañju Iyer left behind has been the corpus of about 200 Dīkṣitar compositions that he taught chiefly to Tiruppāmburam Brothers and Dhanammāḷ. And this number represents the largest non-Subbarāma Dīkṣitar—Ambi Dīkṣitar lineage repertoire of Dīkṣitar *kṙti*s. The repertoire of Pañju Iyer's śiṣya paraṁpara, and as validated by the notation of the 50 *kṙti*s in this book, shows that only one kṙti, "mahāgaṇapathiṁ vande", in tōḍi rendered by this school and notated in this book is not found in Subbarāma Dīkṣitar's magnum opus, "Saṁgīta saṁpradāya pradarśini". It is worth noting here that Tiruppāmburam Naṭarājasundaram Piḷḷai, and later, Saṅgita Kalānidhi Svāmīnātha Piḷḷai had been instrumental in popularizing Dīkṣitar's "caturdaśa rāgamālika" composition, śrī viśvanātham", composed on the deity at Kuzhikkarai near Tiruvārūr.

Almost all the compositions of Sri Dīkṣitar, rendered by Dhanammāḷ's family can be ascribed directly to Pañcanada Iyer. A total of about 20 to 25 *kṙti*s of Muddusvāmi Dīkṣitar, including the seven *vāra kṙti*s find place in the repertoire of Dhanammāḷ family. This is what Dr. V. Raghavan says of Dhanammāḷ's tutelage under Pañcanada Iyer, in his 1975 work on Dīkṣitar, published by the National Centre for the Performing Arts.

> "It was from Pañcanada Iyer that the great Vīṇai Dhanammāḷ inherited her Dīkṣitar repertoire which then came to her daughters and granddaughters. Dhanammāḷ always mentioned Pañju lyer as Eṅga Ayyā" (Our Revered Master). The Dīkṣitar songs and their renderings of this line have the authentic vaiṇika quality and the correct aesthetics of the Dīkṣitar style of composition. I have not listened outside of Dhanammāḷ family to "vīṇāpustaka dhāriṇīm" in the rare Vēgavāhini, or to as sublime a rendering such as they gave to "māmava paṭṭābhirama" in maṇiraṅgu."

The Friday music soirees at Dhanammāḷ's house naturally featured a number of Dīkṣitar compositions. On one such Friday evening, Justice T. L. Vēṅkaṭarāma Iyer, an acknowledged authority on Dīkṣitar's compositions himself took Ambi Dīkṣitar to hear Dhanammāḷ play. Here is the summary of his speech in the 1966 Music Academy Experts Committee deliberations, recording for posterity, on that visit:

> "Saṅgīta Kalānidhi Śrī T. L. Vēṅkaṭarāma Iyer recalled how his own awakening into the beauties of Dīkṣitar's music was due to his first listening to Dhanam's rendering on her Vīṇa of Dīkṣitar's "tyāgarājāya namaste" in bēgaḍa, and how he had occasion to take his own guru, Ambi Dīkṣitar, son of Subbarāma Dīkṣitar, to Dhanammāḷ. One of Dhanammāḷ's *guru*s was Sāttanūr Pañju Iyer, ⋯ ."

The musical lineage of Pañju Iyer continues even today, through those who learnt from various members of Dhanammāḷ family, and from Saṅgīta Kalānidhi Flute Tiruppāmburam Svāmināṭha Piḷḷai.

Pañcanada Iyer passed away in 1902, the same year and within a few months of Paṭnam Subramaṇya Iyer's passing away. Pañcanada Iyer's only son Mahādēvan was also his disciple and a violinist in his own right. Śrī Mahādēvan also passed away sometime during the 1950's, in Sāttanūr village, leaving the family in dire straits. No further information is available about the surviving descendants.
